White Hen customer gives big to muscular dystrophy fund

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Every morning Max Davenport stops by the Antioch White Hen before he goes to work. He always pays more than his tab.

About $100 more.

Sometimes he leaves that much money without buying anything. But Davenport isn't just throwing cash around. He has a point.

The White Hen on 485 North Ave. helps raise funds for muscular dystrophy research, said Mickey Stusse, general manager. Customers are asked to give only $1. But Davenport has always given more.

Davenport has given over $1,500, Stusse said.

The fund-raiser is sponsored by Graham Enterprises, the Mundelein-based company that the White Hen leases its building through, Stusse said.

Davenport, who has a 10-year-old son and a wife of 18 years, visits the convenience store with co-workers. He owns Maxi-Rooter in Fox Lake, a plumbing business, he said. His morning visits to White Hen are a huge part of getting ready for his day, he said.

"My morning brightens up," he said, smiling widely. "They have a great staff here, they're always so cheerful."

On a recent visit, Davenport and three colleagues walked into the store to enthusiastic greetings. After some chit chat and a little shopping, Davenport gave Stusse a sweet kiss on the cheek to say goodbye.

He made sure to make another donation before he left.

"I do it for the children," he said. "I got a big heart."

Personal experiences have also sparked his generous spirit. His mother is a lymphoma survivor, and is now battling leukemia, he said. Davenport said he could go on and on about loved ones who have battled various diseases.

Muscular dystrophy is not his only cause. Davenport said he also donates to American Cancer Society, breast cancer, leukemia and missing children funds.

"The most important thing for me is for kids to enjoy life as much as they can," Davenport said. "I'm one of the fortunate ones. I'm

Plans for subdivision moving along

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Plans to build a subdivision on land known as White Tower Farms is progressing slowly but steadily, said Bob Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building.

Petitioners from Residential Land Fund wish to build 300 single family homes on the 156-acre site, said Dennis Cortesi, the lead petitioner.

The process of getting the neighborhood done started a little over a year ago, with plans still in motion.

The latest move in the process was the recent donation of 5.2 acres of land to the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department, said Laurie Stahl, director. The land is part of the acreage for the proposed subdivision.

Building a new neighborhood usually has an effect upon the park district and schools among other entities, Stahl said. To make up for this, petitioners either donate land or money to the affected group.

The parks department wanted its land, the 5.2 acres, to be in the center of the potential subdivision, Stahl said. Rather, it is off to the side.

"It's not ideal," she said, but it will do. Stahl said she just wants the land, which could hold a playground, to be easily accessible for future residents.

The question of how to use the donated land comes next. Using suggestions from the parks department, engineers from Residential Land Fund will draw up plans for possible uses, Cortesi said.

The parks department's advisory committee will approve a plan and send it to the planning and zoning's advisory committee, Stahl said. Finally, the plan will venture to the village board for approval.

Cortesi said petitioners have approved a cash donation for the schools, districts 117 and 34. The money will be awarded when construction begins.

But until then, the subdivision is still a plan, barely laid out in blueprints. Silhan said developers still need to hash out a few items, such as figuring out how to get sewer service to the area and the exact population impact upon schools.

A public hearing, one of several since Dec. 8, will be held Feb. 9, Silhan said.

The first girl born at Lake Forest Hospital in 2006 came into the world at 1:40 a.m. Jan. 2. Pictured from left are Kim Nagy, executive director of women's services, Micah, Amy and Faith Kerr of Antioch and Dr. Scott Logan, OB/GYN, who delivered the baby. Amy went into labor the evening of Jan. 1, said her husband Micah. The delivery was smooth, and Faith was born several hours later. This is the couple's third child. They have two girls, ages six and three. Girl Scout Troop 2350 prepared a gift basket for Faith, including cookies and an application and invitation to join the girl scouts in 2013. Mother and baby are doing well in the hospital.

Lindenhurst woman killed in weekend Libertyville crash

By Rebecca Klugiewicz
Staff Reporter

While many people around the county were celebrating on New Year's Eve last Saturday, one Lindenhurst family was mourning the death of one of their own. Diane Kettman, 46, was pronounced dead at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville following a car crash on Route 45 and Peterson Road.

The crash that killed the woman occurred at approximately 2 p.m. according to Libertyville Police Chief Patrick Carey. "At the scene, it did not appear that any of the injuries were life-threatening," he said. Police were notified that Kettman died at the hospital at 7:47 p.m. the same day of intra-abdominal injuries, according to Lake County Coroner Dr. Richard Keller.

Allstate executive vies for State Senate seat

Candidate looking to relieve District 31 issues

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

After watching several northern Lake County school districts cope with multiple failed referendums, Grayslake resident and parent Michael Bond decided to act. First he garnered the highest number of votes cast of 10 candidates to land a seat on the Woodland Community Consolidated School District 50 Board of Education; second he announced his candidacy for the Illinois State Senate District 31 seat.

Bond said that although his children's school district wasn't experiencing the degree of financial problems faced by Community Consolidated School District 46 and Gurnee School District 56, there was still a profound impact from those schools on the entire community. If the education system in an area isn't successful, he said, other community structures begin to suffer.

"After looking at the direction that Woodland and neighboring districts were going that caused me to take a quick turn," he said. "People were leaving the community. Just by driving around you could tell there were less businesses here. This wasn't my problem but it really had a direct impact on me. I wanted to bring my business skills to the school because at the rates that these referendums were failing, it was just startling."

Bond is hoping to bring his business expertise to the State Senate as well. For the past 10 years he has worked at Allstate Insurance Company holding various finance and budgeting positions. He joined Allstate in 1995 as an associate financial analyst and earned eight promotions in his first eight years with the company. He currently holds the position of corporate finance director.

"I have pretty high expectations of what our state legislature should be doing," he said. "Allstate is very, very supportive. I don't want to pick up and leave. I want to fix things."

Creating tax fairness and near-term traffic solutions are two other areas that Bond has highlighted during his campaign. As the area's population grows, better use must be made of citizen tax dollars, he said.

Bond

"We have the ideas. What we just don't have is the money," said Bond. "I want to be the person that goes to Springfield and fights for those kinds of things."

Creating a biotech corridor around corporations like Abbott Labs and Baxter Healthcare Corporation is another way to bring funds into the area, Bond said.

"We need to build a talent pool. That's why other companies want to move up here," he said. "Companies want to be where people want to live and people want to live where there are great schools. We need a 10 to 15-year plan where you can attract great businesses. For us to be able to do this, things are going to have to be very well thought out. Without good leadership I don't think we are going to find good solutions to these problems."

Bond is active in other community activities including youth sports and an annual youth orienteer event. He and his wife, Jennifer, have three children and have been married for 10 years.

District 31 is home to 250,000 people. Its communities include Channel Lake, Antioch, Fox Lake, Lake Villa, Round Lake Heights, Round Lake Beach, Hainesville, Grayslake, Lindenhurst, Gurnee, Wadsworth, Zion, Winthrop Harbor and Beach Park.

Cardinal Francis George to visit Friday

The cardinal set to participate in all-night vigil in Mundelein

By Rebecca Klugiewicz
Staff Reporter

For many Catholics, meeting a cardinal might be an once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Local residents will have that chance next week.

Friday night, Cardinal Francis George of the Chicago Archdiocese will lead Mass at Santa Maria del Popolo Church, at 116 N. Lake St. in Mundelein. The Mass, which is part of a monthly all-night vigil held at the church, will be vicariate-wide, or open to all area parishioners. Mundelein resident Nancy Martin began the vigils in 2004. "I felt the Lord lead me to start this apostolate," Martin said.

The apostolate, or not-for-profit group with a spiritual mission, is called St. Therese Marian Vigil Society. It meets on the first Friday of the month to pray for what Martin calls the four pillars that are attacked in society. They are life, marriage, family and priests. She said the United States should not allow abortion, contraception, euthanasia, pornography and more. "It's just a culture of death and this is not God's plan. God is the only one who decides who lives or dies, not human beings," she said.

Jesus inspired the vigils. "We do it to imitate him and we do it because it's sacrificial," Martin said. "This is a powerhouse vigil because we pull all the weapons available to us in one evening," Martin said. Those "weapons" include love, prayer, devotions, sacrifice and Holy Eucharist.

Martin wrote the cardinal a letter asking him to hold a Mass at one of the vigils and he agreed. "I was happy that he supports it and that adds a lot of confirmation," she said. Martin hopes the vigil will have a larger attendance that usual because of the cardinal's presence. "It's going to be a very, very beautiful Mass," she said. The Mass will be more elaborate than usual and will feature a full choir and musicians, many altar boys and the Knights of Columbus in Regalia. "We spruce it up because of the cardinal so it's not always that elaborate, but we try to make every Mass beautiful," she said. George plans on speaking about the vocation of priesthood and evangelization.

Confession will begin at 9 p.m. The cardinal's mass will follow at 10 p.m., after which he will greet parishioners. Other activities throughout the vigil, which will end at 7 a.m. on Jan. 7, include opening prayers, benediction and praying for sorrowful, luminous and glorious mysteries of the rosary.

So far, another church on the south side of Chicago has begun holding their own vigils through the St. Therese Marian Vigil Society. Another one is in the process. Martin hopes other churches around the country will follow suit. The model is set up and the local group will help others start similar vigils. She hopes the vigils can "bring the country back more in line with God's will."

For more information on the vigils, visit the St. Therese Marian Vigil Society online at www.vigilsociety.org.

Lake County Forest Preserves offer seasonal employment fair

By Rebecca Klugiewicz
Staff Reporter

It's sometimes difficult to find a summer job. The Lake County Forest Preserves hope to make the search a lot easier with their first ever Forest Preserves Summer Employment Job Fair, which will be at the banquet facilities inside the visitor's center at Independence Grove Forest Preserve, 16400 W. Buckley Road in Libertyville on Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Previously the forest preserves only attended fairs sponsored by other local organizations. "This is our first time trying it on our own," Laurel Bronk, the human resources generalist, said. The reason for that is they want to begin the application process earlier this year. Other seasonal job fairs are often held in February or March, but officials at the forest preserves hope to target college students and other students that are between semesters or on winter break right now. The event is free and about 150 to 200 employment opportunities are available according to Bronk. Open positions include lifeguards, aquatic managers, golf club attendants, clubhouse attendants, camp counselors and more. All of the positions will remain open until they are filled.

The various positions are for preserves located around the county and most of the employers will be on-hand throughout the day to conduct interviews. Representatives for the golf clubs will be there around 10 a.m. Applications for all positions will be available at the event, although people that can't attend the employment fair but are interested in seasonal employment opportunities can obtain the application online at www.lcfd.org.

Bronk and other officials are hoping for a high turnout. She thinks the good reputation of the forest preserves will encourage people to get involved. "It's definitely a well-respected employer well-known throughout Lake County," she said. "The forest preserve is a wonderful place to work."

The jobs are also listed online. Applications can be turned in by downloading and mailing to the address on the form. They can also be turned in at the Lake County Forest Preserves General Offices at 2000 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville from Mondays to Fridays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Contact Bronk with any questions at 847-968-3242 or via e-mail at lbronk@co.lake.il.us.

En guard at Condell's Centre Club

New weekend fencing class begins this month

By Rebecca Klugiewicz
Staff Reporter

Various forms of sword fighting have existed since the Middle Ages, if not earlier. Fencing as a sport has been around for centuries. Now, Lake County residents will have the chance to suit up and see what it's about at Condell's Centre Club in Libertyville.

Currently, the health club offers classes in kickboxing, cardio workouts, yoga and more. "We focus on providing an outlet for people to get a great exercise with different programs," Kim Albertsen, the club's program director, said.

Anyone age 16 or up in Lake County can join the class, which will meet Sundays from Jan. 15 through Feb. 19 from 2 to 4 p.m. The cost is $65 for non-members, or $95 per non-member couples and $50 for members, or $80 per member couples. Any non-members that sign up for the class will receive a discount on the health club rate if they decide to join, Albertsen said.

For more information about this or other activities or to register for the fencing class, call 847-990-5750 or visit the Centre Club at 200 W. Golf Road in Libertyville.

Stay off ice, area officials warn

By Steve Peterson
Staff Reporter

Area firefighters are warning residents with the onslaught of early winter weather to stay clear of the icy spots in lakes, channels and ponds.

"It's still thin, so we're recommending that people not use it yet, although we have had no ice rescues yet," said Fox Lake Fire Chief Ron Hoehne.

Fox Lake, Grayslake, Lake Villa, Newport and Round Lake and Antioch fire departments have combined to buy a second airboat for ice rescues. One will be at Fox Lake and the other at Antioch fire departments, Hoehne said.

"Last year, we used the airboat a lot," Hoehne said.

Fox Waterway Agency, based in Fox Lake, which oversees the Chain O' Lakes, issued an advisory for lakes and the Fox River. "Use utmost care when venturing onto frozen waters," it states.

When is ice safe?

According to Wauconda Fire Department recommendations, there is no sure answer to that question.

"Ice is tricky, and just because a lake or stream is frozen doesn't mean the ice is safe. The tricky thing about ice is that the thickness of the ice means very little when you are talking about its strength. You need to look at the consistency and structure of the ice to determine its strength capabilities," said Lt. Mike Wahl of Wauconda Fire Department.

Some suggestions from fire departments and how to handle icy situations:

Uniform crystal clear ice is the safest type of ice;

Generally speaking, new ice is much stronger than old ice. Ice formed by the direct freezing of the water of a lake or stream will be stronger than ice formed by melting snow, refrozen ice, or ice made by water that bubbled up through cracks and froze on the surface. A few inches of new ice may be strong enough to support you, while a foot or more of the old "rotten" ice may not be.

Snow on the ice will insulate slowing down the ice-forming process. The additional weight of the snow can also decrease the weight-bearing capacity of the ice.

Ice can be several inches thick in one spot yet only an inch thick nearby.

Call 911, tell the emergency operator that someone has fallen through the ice and the location of the accident. Do not go onto the ice and attempt a rescue.

Restaurant thanks community for great year

By Tara Clifton
Staff Reporter

Food is Scott Kac's passion. "I love to cook," Kac said with a gleam in his eyes. "It's all I think about. I love to create different things and watch how customers react."

Gisela Elkin, Kac's aunt, said her nephew's passion borders on obsession.

"He thinks of mushrooms in the shower," Elkin said jokingly. "He pats his roast beef, he talks to his roast beef."

With Kac's extreme fondness for the culinary arts, it is really no surprise that his restaurant, Scott Dogs at 895 E. Grand Ave. in Lake Villa, has done so well. Kac and his aunt opened the eatery together in January 2005.

Scott Dogs offers hot dogs, of course, but also much more. Ribs, burgers, chicken and sausage are only a handful of dishes that are served up.

Everything is homemade, Kac said. All ingredients are fresh. And the business is quite a family affair. In addition to all Elkin does, Kac's sister, grandma, mother and father help in various ways, such as preparing food and plumbing work.

Scott Dogs also caters to "anybody," Kac said, and delivers to places within 15 minutes from the restaurant.

Finally being able to open the restaurant fulfilled a long-held goal for both Kac and Elkin. Kac had been a chef, his specialty All-American cuisine, in various locations for nearly 17 years. Elkin ran a cleaning service and managed a secretarial business for 14 years.

"It's been my dream since I started working in restaurants," Kac said. "It's the best way to go. I want people to remember me for my food."

And it seems like they will. One recent Friday, Scott Dogs was still half full after the lunch hour rush. Customers sat in groups around tables, one little boy flying a french fry in the air before landing it in his mouth.

In addition to serving good food, Kac said he tries to stay involved in the community as well. He often attends area little league baseball games, and has built a reputation for being a fun guy to spend time with.

"I've become the Scott Dog to customers," Kac said. They no longer refer to him by his name.

To celebrate their one-year anniversary and give back to people who have given them so much, Scott Dogs is offering special deals for customers. Discounts will be given depending upon how much is spent.

The past year has been challenging, Elkin said, because opening a restaurant is a "big venture."

But it has been worth the effort.

Rotary steps closer to charter

Membership increasing for fledgling organization

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

The Provisional Rotary Club of Grayslake is inching closer to becoming a chartered organization. Since its first meeting in mid-November, the club has steadily increased its membership and organizers expect to have a charter from Rotary International before the end of January.

At its last meeting, two people signed onto the group as charter members leaving the club just three charter members shy of being able to apply for official status. Founder Marianne Zeidler is optimistic about the organization's future. She is the former president of the Rotary Club of Long Grove.

"There is a good chance to have the club chartered before the end of January," she said. "(Members) have enjoyed it. We're doing pretty good."

The Rotary calendar year actually begins on July 1 and until then Zeidler said that Grayslake's Rotary would actually be considered an organization in "training." Many components go into creating a successful rotary, she said.

"The key to the club in training is to build it with different activities every week," she said. "The only concern (members) have are the weekly meetings, but we have a lot of make-up opportunities and when members go to other rotary meetings they get to meet with other members."

A highlight of each rotary meeting is the rotary moment, which focuses on current club events and programs. Last meeting's moment featured information about the Rotary Youth Leadership Award, which is a district-wide program for high school students who have the chance to win a three-day trip to Wisconsin for leadership camp as well as the Short Term (Youth) Exchange Program and the International Orchestra Camp.

Lake Forest Hospital Outpatient and Acute Care Center Vice President James Killian is expected to become president of the new Grayslake club at the beginning of July. The interim president is currently Mundelein-Vernon Hills Rotarian Charles Clow.

"I was contacted three or four months ago by the Antioch Rotary...about my potential interest," said Killian. "My first reaction was 'Gee. Isn't there a rotary in Grayslake?' So I said 'Sure I'd be interested.'"

Killian said that there are many strengths to rotary, including its mission of eradicating polio across the globe. It is also well known for its safe student exchange programs, he said.

"It's primarily a service organization but what makes it a bit different than other large organizations is that it supports local initiatives as well as international kinds of things," he said.

The Grunee, Antioch and Libertyville rotaries have officially aided Grayslake in founding its own rotary, although Killian said that many other area rotaries have lent a helping hand.

"Even though there are only three official rotaries, there are still three or four helping as well," he said.

The next Provisional Rotary Club of Grayslake meeting will be at 11:30 a.m. on Monday, Jan. 9 at the Lake Forest Hospital Outpatient and Acute Care Center, 1475 E. Belvidere Road in Grayslake.

New Year offers new activities, old favorites

Happy New Year! The 12-month cycle is at its start again, meaning opportunities to participate in repeated events and the chance to attend something fresh.

The Antioch Area Senior Center is holding an open house to give the community the chance to check out its new multi-purpose room. Visitors can come from 2 to 4 p.m. Jan. 7 at the center at 817 Holbeck Drive. A dedication ceremony, with Mayor Dorothy Larson in attendance, will be held at 2:30 p.m.

The 2,000 square foot addition to the senior center will be dedicated to Dolly Spiering, a 25-year member of the center, said director Paul Howard. Funds from the Dolly Spiering Foundation were used to build the extra room, which cost about $400,000.

The room will host a smorgasbord of activities, from line dancing, parties and card games to movies played on the big screen television, Howard said.

The art of Joan Hinman will be the main feature at the Antioch Fine Arts Foundation Gallery. Hinman's 13 watercolors, along with some prints, will be displayed throughout all of January, she said. Art enthusiasts, or those just plain curious, can view her paintings from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and from 12 to 4 p.m. Sundays. A special artists' reception will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Jan. 15.

A different artist's work is displayed each month.

So there you go. Those are just two things to do at the start of this new year. Many more events are planned. It should be fun to explore these activities. Getting to know your community while having fun is always a good idea.

P.S. Congratulations to Sarah Effinger of Lake Villa. She and 18 other students graduated in December from the University of Wisconsin in Platteville. Sarah received a bachelor of science in chemistry in the College of Engineering, Mathematics and Science. Students in this college must have a grade point average of 3.5 or above. Congrats, Sarah!

ACCIDENT

"We're operating right now under the premise that injuries received during the accident were fatal," Carey said. As of Tuesday afternoon, the crash was still being looked into. "We have an ongoing investigation and we want to be careful not to draw any conclusions," he explained.

Kettman was the front passenger in a 1994 Nissan van that was traveling south on Route 45. A 1999 Cadillac going east on Peterson Road struck the van. Both the van's driver, 41-year-old John Kettman and and their 12-year-old daughter were injured in the crash and taken to Condell Medical Center. They were both released. A dog was also in the vehicle and was uninjured.

Carey said the driver of the Cadillac, 69-year-old Daniel Pacewicz of Fox Lake, apparently ran a red light. He was also taken to Condell and released. Police issued citations for no proof of insurance, disobeying a traffic control device, no proof of insurance, transportation or possession of alcoholic liquor in a motor vehicle and failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision. Police said the man had two nearly-empty, open cans of alcohol in his car but they do not believe he was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the accident. "Two of my officers checked him very carefully at the scene," he said. The paramedics also checked him. Carey said there was no sign of impairment or smell of alcohol on the man's breath, but he was not given a breathalyzer test. Additional charges may be made, police said.

A certified traffic accident reconstructionist at the Libertyville Police Department is working on the case, Carey said. He also said neither vehicle is drivable and both are currently in police custody until the investigation is complete. No damage estimate was given on either vehicle.

According to Carey, accidents have not been common in the area in recent years. "It's not a very high-accident intersection" because there is high visibility, he said. The speed limit on Person Road is 40 MPH and is 45 MPH on Route 45. Southbound traffic on Route 45 was diverted for about 30 minutes following the accident.

"He has been so wonderful to us," she said. "This is the guy who helps make it happen. He goes above and beyond."

Humans have always looked to the heavens to measure time, but how it is done has varied among cultures and civilizations. As we celebrate the new year using the Western calendar, here is a brief look at how other peoples, ancient and modern, determine a new year and the passage of time.

The Mayan Calendar

This ancient Meso-American civilization viewed time as cyclical, said Jeff Stomper, dean of the department of social sciences at the College of Lake County. The Mayas lived off of three calendars. The first calendar, the Tzolkin, had a combination of 13 months and 20 day names, making it a 260-day calendar. This was used to measure shorter events, such as when to harvest crops. The second calendar, Stomper said, contained 365 days, split into 18 months and 20 days.

This calendar was used to measure longer periods of time. The third calendar, dubbed the long count, gauged creation and destruction periods. It had cycles of 20 days that built upon each other. At the end of the era, which would be roughly 5,200 years, the world ended.

The Mayas believed that the current era we live in started around 3114 B.C. and will end around 2012 B.C. "It's not quite a bad thing, though," Stomper said. "Nothing terrible happens, life just goes on." Mayan celebrations of important dates along these timelines were elaborate affairs. Sexual abstinence would be maintained days before and after a ceremony, and the ceremonies themselves involved bloodletting, a very important part of Mayan culture. Men would cut themselves with an obsidian knife or a stingray spine and let the blood drip onto a piece of paper lying in a bowl. Women would drag a string of thorns across their tongues and let the blood fall onto the paper. The paper was then burned and the smoke was a direct communication with the gods.

The Druids

The Druids were a class of Celtic people who lived in Britain, Scotland and surrounding areas. For them, the new year began on Nov. 1. Time was measured through the cycles of the moon.

Each month began with a full moon, and the months were divided into fortnights, two week periods. A dark fortnight followed a bright fortnight. Months were roughly 30 days and years were usually 12 months.

The Druids made up for the difference in time it took for the moon and sun to orbit the earth by adding an extra month every third year. Only winter and summer were recognized, and Nov. 1 was seen as the beginning of the "dark period" because that was the time of year when the weather turned cold and the ground froze. This time was also called Samhain.

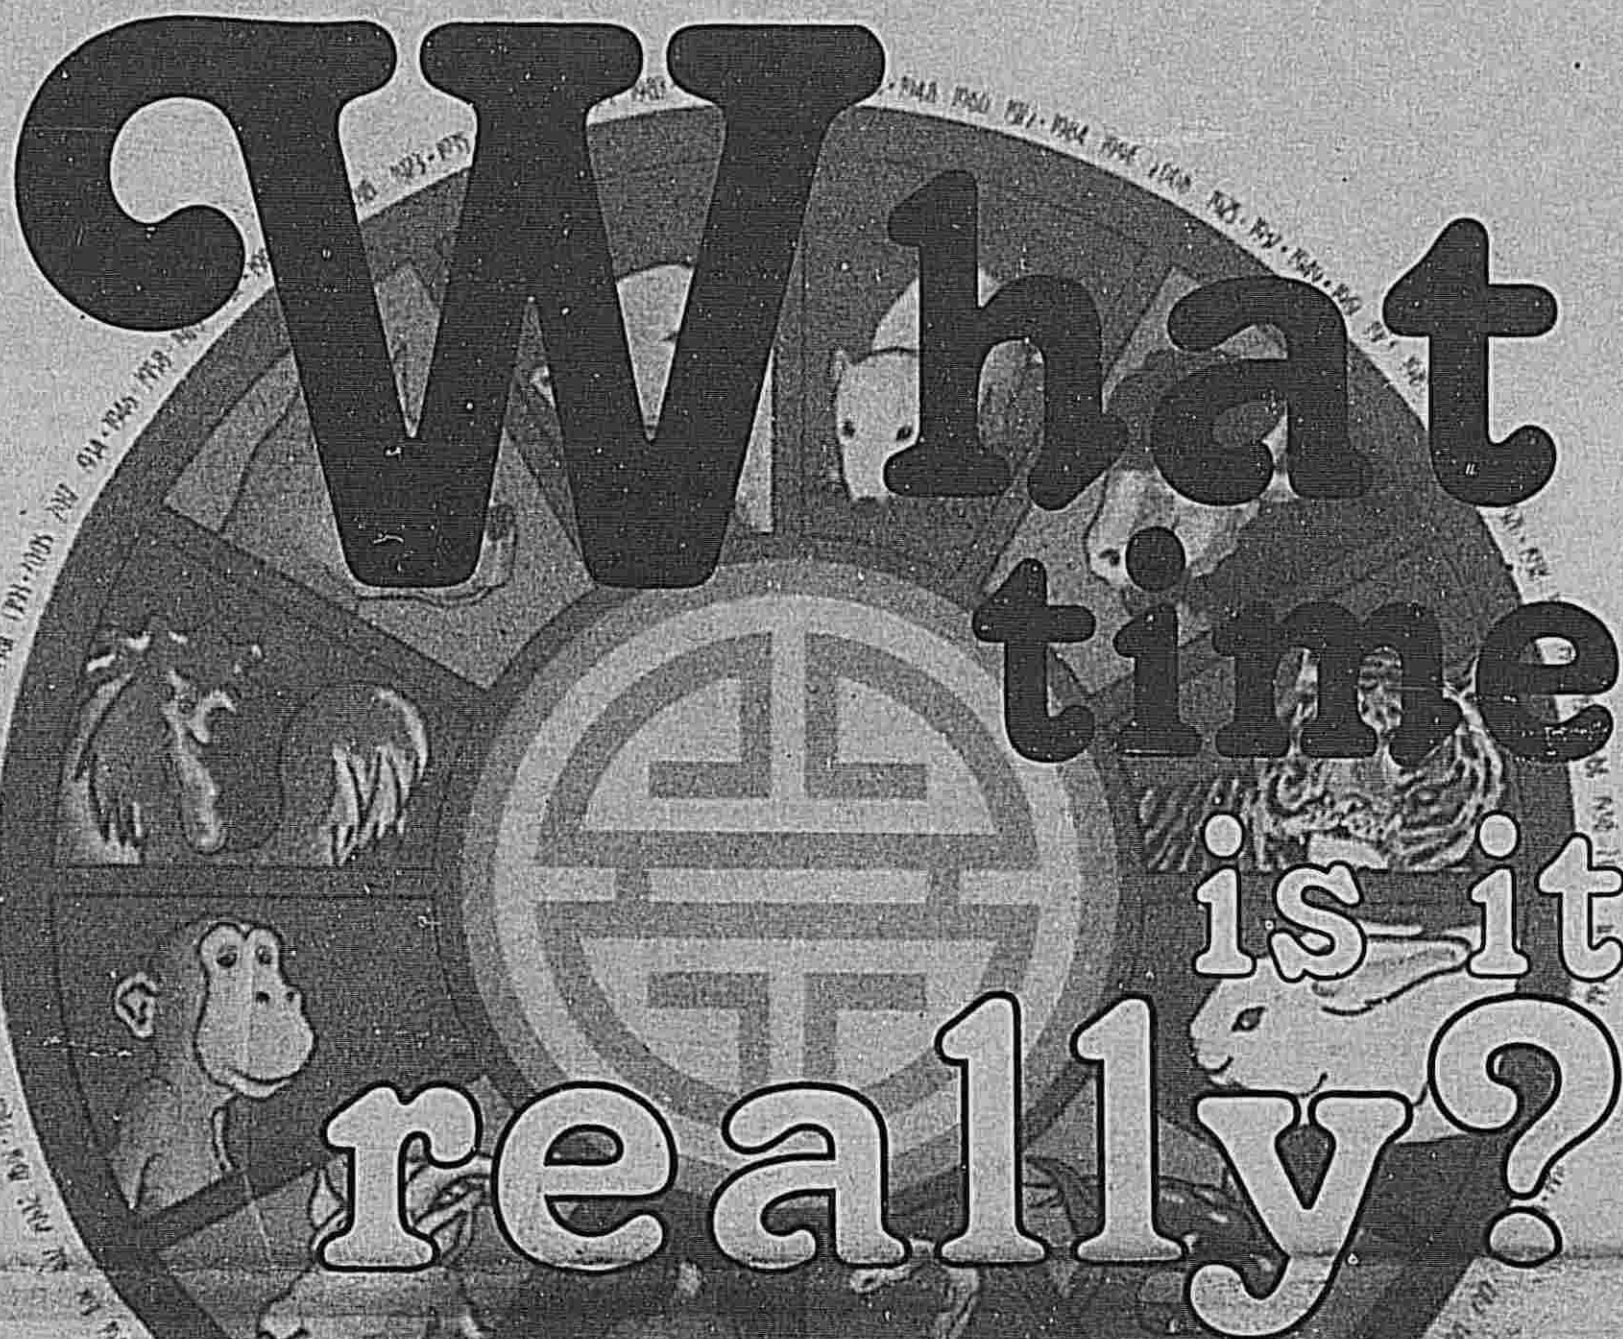

Samhain, when the constellation Pleiades rose in the sky, was one of the Druids' most significant celebrations. It marked the end of summer, and the movement of the constellation showcased the triumph of night over day. On Samhain Eve a festival, the Feast of the Dead, united the past, present and future. Spirits of the dead and those of the unborn walked the Earth. The Druids believed that the spirit lived in the head, so if the head of an enemy killed in battle was displayed, that enemy's spirit could not harm them during Samhain.

The Chinese

The Chinese use both a lunar and solar calendar. The lunar calendar is based upon the cycle of the moon, which lasts roughly 29.5 days. The New Year, beginning either late January or early February, is the most important Chinese celebration. The first day starts with a new moon and the 15th day lands on a full moon. The last day of the New Year is called the Lantern Festival, and is held at night. Lantern-lit parades fill the streets, and ornate lantern displays flare in the dark.

The Chinese year holds 12 months, each month named for a different animal. One legend tells that Buddha once invited all the animals of the world to his side, but only 12 came. To honor those in attendance, he granted each animal a month: rat, ox, tiger, hare, dragon, snake, horse, sheep, monkey, rooster, dog and pig.

The Chinese solar calendar is split into 24 parts based on the longitude of the sun in the sky. The solar calendar cycles every 60 years. However, the lunar calendar is 11 days shorter than the solar calendar. To reconcile the difference an extra month is inserted once every few years, or seven years out of a 19-year cycle. This is similar to the Western calendar's leap year. It is this difference between the lunar and solar calendars that the Chinese New Year falls on a different date each year.

A scene from 'Modigliani'

Citadel Theatre Co. presents the Chicago premiere of 'Modigliani'

"Modigliani" by Dennis McIntyre is a visually and emotionally riveting production that envelopes the audience, taking them on journey inside the mind, life and vision of Amedeo Modigliani. One of the most unique and expressive painters of the 20th century, Modigliani lived a life as complex and unique as his work. A dreamy, lyrical stylist boxed in by the era of Cubism, battling an art world that valued the messenger over the message, his outer struggles were mere mirrors of his chaotic inner landscape.

Portraits. Wine. Sketches. Drugs. Nudes. Blood. Sculptures. Art Dealers. Brushes. Food. Supplies. Money. Painting. Love. All are caught up in the spinning vision that is Modigliani's world.

Paint, line and form. Art, love and life. All brought together to become Modigliani.

Modigliani is the third show in Citadel's subscription series of five. All plays in the season revolve around the world of art, from the process to the product, from the artist's point of view to the patron's. It's a truly subjective topic - "the eye of the beholder." All performances will be presented in the newly transformed Grotto Down Under, located at 400 E. Illinois Road in Lake Forest, it's a 70-seat black box theatre providing an intimate performance space for the actors and the audience.

Directed by David Soria of Westmont and produced by Christie Carroll-Weprin of Lake Bluff and Missy Greenberg of Highland Park. The cast includes Scott Phelps of Lake Forest, Amy Johnson and Reid Ostrowski of Chicago, Thomas Quigley of Lake Villa, Tim Garvey of Evanston, Joseph Cirafici of Elmwood Park and Nick Degrazia of Highland Park.

Modigliani will be performed from Jan. 19 to Feb. 12. Thursday, Friday and Saturday performances begin at 8 p.m. and on Sunday at 2 p.m. Tickets are $20 for adults, $17 for students and seniors. For more information or to purchase tickets, call the Citadel box office at 847-735-8554 or go to Citadel's website www.citadeltheatre.org.

Grasslands Trio to perform at Greenleaf Grill Jan. 15

The Lake County Folk Club's acclaimed Concert Stage kicks off in 2006 with national touring folk performers the Grasslands Trio on Sunday, Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. at The Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf St. in Park City. The musical event is open to the public and to all ages.

The Grasslands Trio weaves a musical tapestry from gypsy swing, western swing, bluegrass, and reworked popular songs playing their unique brand of exciting music from the Hot Club of Paris of the 1930s to the Texas roadhouses of the 1940s to the classic bluegrass sounds of the 1950s to mandolin driven rock'n' roll tunes.

The Grasslands Trio includes a mixture of vocals, mandolins, guitars, and double bass that will jump start music enthusiasts.

Mark Anel of The North Loop News says of The Grasslands Quintette from which The Grassland Trio derives, "It's fun to see a band in which the members appear to be enjoying themselves while steering clear of that awful and often-displayed bugbear of taking itself too seriously."

Anel further says, "Musically, any critic would be hard pressed to find anything that doesn't ring absolutely true in the musical selections put together by Grasslands - and just as hard pressed attempting to categorize their musical genre."

Simply put, The Grasslands Trio is synonymously filled with freedom of musical expression and energetic virtuoso.

Mike O'Connell, who studied with the late mandolin master Jethro Burns, and who has played all over the world, swings in The Grassland Trio alternating instrumentally between mandolin, mandola, guitar and handling most of the vocals.

"O'Connell can deliver blistering paced finger-picking on a curious array of instruments while making it seem so effortless," says The North Loop News, Mark Anel. "O'Connell's clearly a guy who will give you the last onion off the grill."

In addition to Mike O'Connell, The Grasslands Trio is musically comprised of Mike Church holding down the band's primary guitar slot, bringing to the band a rootsy Carolina background infused with a L.A. musical mastery.

Marc Edelstein is The Grasslands Trio's acoustic bassist and is the co-founder of the Special Consensus Bluegrass Band.

With a taste of further variety, The Grasslands Trio also sometimes performs in a different configuration known as The Grasslands Quintette, Grasslands Light or The Grasslands Driftin' Cowboys.

Whether performing at Fitzgerald's in Berwyn or Taste of Chicago or The Lake County Folk Club's Concert Stage at The Greenleaf Grill, audiences love the musical virtuoso and fun Grasslands brings to the stage. Music enthusiasts won't want to miss them performing.

Opening for The Grasslands Trio's Concert Stage performance is singer-songwriter, Lake County Folk Club member, and guitarist extraordinaire Pete Jonsson.

Admission is $10 adult, $8 for Lake County Folk Club members, $5 students/seniors. All ages are welcome. For additional information call The Lake County Folk Club at 847-295-7228 or visit www.thelakecountyfolkclub.org.

Japanese postcards displayed at the Lake County Discovery Museum

Chef Ben Smith adds touch of Pacific Rim to salmon dish

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Gorgonzola and Walnut Crusted Salmon with Tomato-Herb Vinaigrette

4 oz. Gorgonzola cheese
2 oz. unsalted butter, room temperature
One-half cup toasted walnuts, chopped
6 filets salmon, 6-7 oz. each
Kosher salt
Oil

Tomato-Herb Vinaigrette:
2 vine-ripened tomatoes
One-half cup fresh basil leaves, chopped
1 shallot, minced
Juice of 1 lemon
One-quarter cup rice vinegar
One-half cup olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste

In an electric mixer with the paddle attachment, cream together the cheese and butter until smooth. Fold in the walnuts with a rubber spatula until well incorporated.

Season the salmon fillets on one side with kosher salt, then place them, salted side down, in a preheated sauté pan that has been lightly oiled with olive oil. Cook the salmon until it begins to brown on one side, and then turn over. Remove the fish to a baking pan. Top each portion of salmon with about 2 tbl. Gorgonzola and walnut topping and spread it evenly. Place in a preheated 400-degree oven for about 8 minutes or until the crust begins to brown.

Core the tomatoes and cut an X in the bottom end of each, just deep enough to pierce the skin. Plunge the tomatoes in boiling water for 10 seconds to loosen the skin, then "shock" them in ice water until cool enough to handle. Starting at the X, peel the skin off using a paring knife. Cut the tomatoes in half through the equator and gently squeeze the seeds out. Coarsely chop the tomatoes and put them into a blender along with the basil, shallot, lemon juice and vinegar. Puree until smooth and remove to a stainless-steel bowl. Whisk in the olive oil by hand. (If you puree the olive oil with the other ingredients, the vinaigrette will incorporate too much air and the color will turn lighter.) Season with salt and pepper.

Line each of 6 plates with the room-temperature vinaigrette. Top with the 6 filets of salmon, garnish with a basil leaf if you like, and serve immediately. Serves 6.

Caribbean Chicken over Coconut Rice

1 tablespoon chicken flavored bouillon granules, divided
1/2 teaspoon Jamaican jerk seasoning blend
4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup coconut milk
1 cup uncooked white rice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel

In small bowl, combine 1 teaspoon chicken bouillon granules and jerk seasoning. Rub both sides of chicken breasts with seasoning mixture. Grill chicken directly over medium coals 12 to 15 minutes or until chicken is no longer pink, turning once. Meanwhile, in saucepan, combine water, coconut milk, remaining bouillon and rice. Bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 25 to 30 minutes or until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Stir in orange peel. Serve chicken over rice. Serves 4.

Portobello Club Sandwiches

4 medium Portobello mushrooms
2 teaspoons beef flavored bouillon granules
2 tablespoons olive oil
12 slices firm white bread, toasted
8 slices Monterey Jack cheese
8 slices tomato
8 slices bacon, cooked crisp, halved
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 chipotle pepper, minced

Sprinkle mushrooms with beef granules. In skillet, heat oil and sauté mushrooms 2 minutes, turning once. Place mushrooms on 4 slices of toast. Top with cheese, toast slice, 2 tomato slices, and 2 slices bacon. Combine mayonnaise and chipotle pepper. Spread mayonnaise mixture on the remaining toast slices and place on top of each sandwich. Secure with toothpicks and cut into quarters. Serves 4.

Italian Pot Roast Helps Warm Up Winter Menus

If you're looking to add flair to your winter fare or want a new flavor for cold-weather special occasions, consider this menu tip: Hearty pot roast can provide a welcome alternative from traditional turkey or ham. Italian chef, cookbook author and television host Nick Stellino offers this recipe:

Pot Roast with Marsala (Agglasso di Marsala)

Serves 4-6

3 1/2 pounds boneless beef pot roast, tied
4 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons Pompeian Extra Light Tasting Olive Oil
7 tablespoons Pompeian Extra Virgin Olive Oil
3 pounds yellow onions, peeled and sliced
2 bay leaves
3/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes
3/4 teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons chopped fresh basil
1 tablespoon chopped fresh rosemary
4 cups dry Marsala wine
6 cups beef broth
1/2 pound Gorgonzola or blue cheese, cut in pieces (optional)

Wipe roast dry with a paper towel and sprinkle with 2 teaspoons of the salt, pepper and flour, shaking off excess flour.

In a large nonstick pan, heat the Pompeian Extra Light Tasting Olive Oil over high heat for 2 to 3 minutes, until very hot. Add beef roast and brown well on all sides. Transfer meat to a baking dish and set aside.

In a large stockpot, heat the Pompeian Extra Virgin Olive Oil over medium heat, for about 2 minutes. Add onions, bay leaves, red pepper flakes, dried thyme, chopped parsley, chop-ped basil, chopped rosemary and remaining salt. Cook, stirring well, for about 8 to 10 minutes until the onions are soft.

Increase heat to high, add the Marsala wine and bring to a boil, stirring well, and cook for 5-8 minutes until liquid has reduced by half. Add browned roast, the accumulated juices and beef broth. Bring to a boil. Then simmer for 1 hour and 35 minutes, turning the meat every 15 minutes and stirring the contents to prevent sticking.

Remove meat and cover with foil. Remove bay leaves from sauce. Bring sauce to a boil, and then lower heat to medium-high and cook, stirring well, for 30 minutes, or longer if you prefer a thicker sauce.

Slice the roast and gently reheat slices in sauce over medium-low heat. Serve, topped with some of the sauce, on a large platter. Serve the extra sauce on the side.

Optional:

To complete the sauce, add the cheese, stirring well until it has completely melted into the sauce.

Snowmobile safety event scheduled

In observance of International Snowmobile Safety Week, Jan. 8 to 14, the Northeastern Illinois Association of Snowmobile Clubs, along with the Lake Co. Forest Preserve Ranger Police, will be hosting a Snowmobile Safety Celebration on Sunday, Jan. 8 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Lakewood Forest Preserve, Shelter E in Wauconda.

The purpose of this event, now in its sixth year, is to educate the public and promote the on-going snowmobile safety programs in Lake County and the benefits of belonging to a snowmobile club. "Snowmobilers need to be aware of snowmobile safety and understand that safe snowmobiling means driving within your own capabilities and operating at a safe speed for the terrain," said Glen Householder, President of the NIASC. Activities and displays planned for the event will promote responsible attitudes and actions that foster the safe, family image of snowmobiling. There will be information and spokespeople for the many local snowmobile clubs and area snowmobile trails. Participants will be exposed to safe snowmobiling practices and information regarding safe snowmobiling will be available. New this year, the Wauconda Fire Department will be on hand to display ice rescue equipment and answer questions regarding ice safety and other winter related issues.

This event is part of International Snowmobile Safety Week sponsored by the International Snowmobile Manufacturers Association. ISMA, an organization representing the four snowmobile manufacturers, functions to provide and encourage policies, programs and activities to improve the sport of snowmobiling throughout the world. ISMA coordinates the Safe Riders! You make snowmobiling safe program. This program encourages safety awareness and makes available posters, brochures, decals and other material pertaining to safe snowmobiling associations.

The Northeastern Illinois Association of Snowmobile Clubs represents 12 snowmobile clubs throughout Lake County. The NIASC sponsors numerous Illinois Department of Natural Resources snowmobile safety classes throughout the fall and winter months. Illinois State law requires children ages 12 to 16 to successfully complete a certified snowmobile safety class to drive a snowmobile. For more information on this event or information on upcoming classes visit the NIASC website at www.niasc.org or call the Ranger Police at 847-968-3411.

Grandma's Boy: This comedy features state of the art 16-year-old gross out humor. Allen Covert ("The Longest Yard") takes on the title role as Alex, the world's oldest video game tester who is forced to move in with his grandma and her two 80-year-old friends. Alex hits rock bottom when an envious boy steals a soon-to-be-hot video game that Alex has developed and tries to pass it off as his own. Grandma, who is now a master gamer, may be the ultimate solution. About senior citizens but not for senior citizens. (R)

Former tennis pro, Chris Wilton (Jonathan Rhys Meyers) is accustomed to near misses in his life. Good but not good enough describes his lifestyle. It seems that the luck of the ball falling one way or the other over the tennis net on those close shots defined his very existence. After leaving the tennis circuit, he begins working at a posh tennis club in London and befriends member Tom Hewett (Matthew Goode). With their mutual love for the opera he not only works his way into the family but also marries Tom's sister, Chloe (Emily Mortimer).

Soon doors are opened to the kind of money and success that Chris had once only dreamed of. Chloe's father Alec (Brian Cox) welcomes him into the family business. And though Chris seems suffocated by the necktie and briefcase he's bound to he serves up his best shot. Chris appears to have made a decent enough trade off in his new life until his libido sends him reeling in the direction of Tom's fiancée, Nola (Scarlett Johansson). Infatuation turns to hedonistic abandon, as a one-night stand with Nola has him craving much more.

As Chris becomes comfortable with his prestigious, well-paid executive position at his father-in-law's company, the fringe benefits like a chauffeur driven car and being a member of the country club rather than a hired hand, forces him to choose between Chloe and Nola. By this time, Nola has changed from coy dilettante to cloying provocateur, demanding that he leave Chloe. Some people think at times they don't have choices but in reality we always have a choice. We might not like what we're faced with, but we do have a choice. Chris' choice is the moral point of the movie.

Written and directed by Academy Award winner Woody Allen ("Annie Hall," "Hannah and Her Sisters"), "Match Point" represents a departure for the native New Yorker, as he crosses the Atlantic to make a movie about people in London society. His talented ensemble cast includes Scarlett Johansson ("Lost in Translation," "Girl With a Pearl Earring"), Jonathan Rhys Meyers ("Bend It Like Beckham," TV's "Elvis"), Emily Mortimer ("Lovely & Amazing," "Bright Young Things," "Dear Frankie"), and Matthew Goode ("Chasing Liberty"). The film also features Brian Cox ("The Bourne Identity," "Red Eye") and Penelope Wilton ("Iris," "Pride & Prejudice").

We won't get into the debate about Allen's return to form or if this is his best picture. It's an astonishing story with incredible performances, that blows you away, right up until it's over and you begin to pick apart the "what ifs" and the "wow factors." We will take the position that with this film and "Melinda and Melinda," Allen shows that smart, intelligent and entertaining movies can be made without spending megabucks on special effects and jotting around the globe to various exotic destinations. Woody Allen is indeed one heck of a storyteller.

Well played

morality, "Match Point" is about being both lucky and good at the same time in the game of life. There are those who think that people that do evil deeds will one day get their just do. Then there are others who tune out their moral compasses and live happily ever after. You'll like the movie either way you think it continues after the credits roll; one way leaves you satisfied and the other conflicted.

Mom bares all

Luke Skywalker had wizened old Yoda show him the ropes when he encountered strange, new galaxies...I, on the other hand, have a brunette bombshell named "Toots" Lamour.

"Toots," or rather Michele, leads workshops at Wauconda's Body Rythms Dance Studio that are designed to turn even this willing wallflower into a brazen, bawdy burlesque queen—something like a Jedi warrior wielding a feather boa.

As the reigning Miss Exotic World of 2005—top honors in the world of striptease—Lamour is a master at burlesque as performed during its heyday in the 20s, 30s and 40s, when taking it off was more performance than plain strip poker. The "art of the tease" relies on sensuous dance moves, good-humored titillation, and flamboyant costumes that make even a concealed leg more exciting than any centerfold.

The "bare recruits" attending Michele's "Santa Baby" workshop were an unexpected group, from newlywed Kimberly Butts of Island Lake, who was sent by her eager husband Steve, to dignified Heidi Baumann of Lake Bluff, married 25 years and the spitting image of rocker Janis Joplin in feathers, satin and beads.

Thanks to the studio's storefront window we also had an audience of gawking shoppers until we really got things steamed up learning the finer, and surprisingly difficult, points of shimmying, sashaying and "scooping." (For you enterprising chi-ropractors, "Toots" recommends scooping—repeatedly making your spinal cord do "the wave"—when suffering a "striptease breakdown" and momentarily forgetting your act.)

However, student Marina Simonoff of Vernon Hills seemed to get it right when she said succeeding at burlesque is more about "finding the woman inside" than just bumping and grinding through the motions. Unfortunately, I was stuck with the outer woman when I couldn't squeeze into the flimsy nighty provided for our dress rehearsal.

Right then and there I knew I needed a gimmick if I was going to succeed as a domestic temptress, and justify the $30 class fee under "Entertainment" in our household budget. I read about strippers with dicey names like Busty Bazoom or Sugar Chemise who use their "endowments" to mix drinks or play the piano. For me, this is definitely a stretch. So hubby, you get my version of "Santa Baby" for Christmas. Here's "Fallen Fanny" wearing her red long underwear.

Body Rythms will be holding Lamour's "Thigh Highs" burlesque workshop on Jan. 10 and her "Be Mine" workshop on Feb. 4. Visit www.bodyrythms.com or phone 847-526-6654.

Theatre School Showcase presents 'The Last Night of Ballyhoo'

The Theatre School Showcase at DePaul University presents "The Last Night of Ballyhoo" by Alfred Uhry, directed by Trudie Kessler. The play previews Feb. 8 and 9 at 7:30 p.m. and opens Friday, Feb. 10 at 7:30 p.m. and runs through Sunday, Feb. 19 at DePaul's Merle Reskin Theatre, 60 E. Balbo Dr. in Chicago. Performances are Wednesdays through Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. For tickets call the box office at 312-922-1999.

This Tony Award winning play highlights a Jewish family's obsession with Ballyhoo, the cotillion for Southern Jewish society, as tensions rise in Europe and "Gone with the Wind" premieres in Atlanta in 1939. Populated with delightful characters and brimming with witty lines, The Last Night of Ballyhoo is a radiant true-to-life comedy framed by the family's struggle with anti-semitism and quest for assimilation and identity.

Ticket prices are $15. Student tickets are $6. Group rates are available for 15 or more people. Seniors 60 and over, corporate partners, DePaul employees and alumni and college students receive a discount.

A post-show discussion with the cast follows the performances on Sunday, Feb. 12 and Thursday, Feb. 16. The performance on Wednesday, Feb. 15 is DePaul Night. Tickets are half price for all DePaul faculty, staff and students, as well as any high school and university student with I.D.

Natural SCENE

To obtain a volunteer application, set up an interview, or for further information on getting involved with Volo Bog, please contact Volo Bog State Natural Area at 815-344-1294. Volo Bog State Natural Area is an Illinois Department of Natural Resources site located in Ingleside, Illinois west off Highway 12 between State Routes 120 and 134.

About the Volo Bog State Natural Area

The current landscape of the northeast corner of Illinois was shaped principally by glacial activity thousands of years ago. As the climate continued to warm, the ice blocks melted, forming depressions which developed into lakes, bogs and marshes. Volo Bog was originally a deep 50-acre lake, with steep banks and poor drainage. Research on pollen grains preserved in the bog indicates that the lake began filling with vegetation approximately 6,000 years ago. A floating mat, consisting primarily of sphagnum moss formed around the outside edges among the cattails and sedges. Volo Bog is significant in that it exhibits all stages of bog succession.

Each season brings its own beauty and wonder to Volo Bog and seasonal visits allow for observation of a wide variety of plant and animal life. In the spring, fern fiddleheads reveal their beautiful fronds. Bog buckbean and leatherleaf bloom in abundance. A great variety of songbirds, waterfowl and wading birds stop by as they migrate north to their summer nesting areas.

Volunteers Sought for Volo Bog State Natural Area and Moraine Hills State Park

The Illinois Department of Natural Resources is looking for adults to fill positions as volunteer Visitor Center Docents and Bluebird Trail Monitors at Volo Bog State Natural Area and Moraine Hills State Park. No prior experience is necessary. Training Workshops are scheduled with continuing learning opportunities to follow.

Visitor center docents are responsible, friendly people who enjoy greeting visitors and answering questions about the sites, their programs and activities. Other duties include taking registrations for public programs, answering the telephone and occasionally helping with interpretive program support activities. Docents at Volo Bog State Natural Area also staff the Friends of Volo Bog's Tamarack Shop. Training Sessions will be held on weekend days beginning in Feb.

Bluebird trail monitors check between 10 to 25 bluebird nesting boxes. Monitors keep detailed records of species use, stage of nesting and overall success rates. Monitors also remove non-native house sparrow nest attempts and assist in maintaining the boxes. These volunteers also help Natural Resources staff keep an eye out for invasive exotic plant species. Volo Bog State Natural Area has openings for up to three monitors and Moraine Hills State Park needs up to eight. A training workshop is scheduled at Moraine Hills State Park on Saturday, March 4 for both sites. Field mentors will then assist new monitors to become acquainted with their trails.

No experience is necessary for either position. In addition to the workshops, on-the-job training, study aids and mentoring will provide the confidence needed to enjoy these interesting opportunities.

The volunteer program at both of these Illinois Department of Natural Resources sites allow adults to share their love and enthusiasm for the natural world while helping to provide a valuable extension to programs at the sites. Volunteers meet new people, develop new skills, learn more about the natural world so close to home.

Phone Site Naturalist Stacy Iwanicki at 815-344-1294 for further information, to obtain an application and to schedule an interview.

Volo Bog State Natural Area is located in Ingleside on Brandenburg Road west of U.S. Highway 12 between State Routes 120 and 134.

Moraine Hills State Park is located on River Road in McHenry between State Routes 120 and 176.

Volunteers contribute in numerous ways to the programming and general operations at Volo Bog State Natural Area. Trained volunteer naturalists lead tours of Volo Bog for individuals and small groups on Saturdays and Sundays at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Youth program naturalists lead environmental education programs including Bog Life tours for over 5,000 school children each year. Others lead bird walks and special workshops. Some tend the demonstration prairie gardens while still others monitor bird nesting programs, maintain the site reference library and assist with the development of the herbarium (plant collection).

The staff of Volo Bog State Natural Area wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to a devoted group of special people.

The Inuit

The Inuit live in northeast Canada and Greenland, the descendants of Asians who traveled across the land bridge into the Americas more than 40,000 years ago.

The Inuit relied upon stars to keep time. During December, the stars Altair and Tarazed always appeared in the morning sky. When the Inuit saw these stars, they knew that the period of darkness would soon end and the sun would return.

Mythology explained the movements of the sun and moon as well as lunar and solar phases and eclipses.

According to legend, the sun was a goddess named Malina and the moon was her brother, Anningan. As children, they played together in the dark. But one day Anningan raped Malina, and during the struggle a lamp of seal oil broke. Malina rubbed the oil on her brother's face and ran away into the sky, Anningan following closely, thus making the two the sun and moon. Because he is forever chasing her, that is why the sun and moon are rarely seen together in the sky. Anningan the moon god often forgets to eat because he is so obsessed with his sister, so as the month progresses he grows thinner until he is forced out of the sky for three days. On rare occasions the moon god catches up with his sister the sun goddess, and that explains solar eclipses.

New tattoo law inked

By Esther J Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

A new state law regulating tattoo parlors is poised to leave an indelible mark on some area teens.

Despite Gov. Rod Blagojevich's veto last summer on the grounds that 18-year-olds don't have the proper judgment to make such a permanent decision, sponsoring State Rep. Jerry Mitchell (R-Rock Falls) pushed to override the governor's veto and the law went into effect on Jan. 1.

The legal age for getting a tattoo has dropped from 21 to 18—music to the pierced ears of the ink artists at Bustos Tattoos on Cedar Lake Road in Round Lake Beach.

Juvenile offenders to be listed

By Kate Thayer and Nate Legue

A statewide registry provides the public with the identity of sex offenders, but some never make it to the list, juveniles.

The state allows youths who commit sex crimes to avoid being included on the Illinois State Police list, but starting in 2006, that will change.

A new law that takes effect Sunday requires juvenile sex offenders to register within 10 days of their 17th birthdays, when they legally are considered adults. Like the procedure for adults, a judge would determine how long they would have to remain on the registry, but the minimum would be 10 years. But the law is not retroactive, allowing past juvenile offenders to remain unlisted, regardless of their current age. The change drew criticism from a civil-liberties group, but it passed the General Assembly earlier this year with unanimous votes in both houses.

Ed Yohnka, Illinois spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union, said his group objected to the new law.

"One of the things at the core of the juvenile-justice system is the capability of rehabilitation," he said.

Tick.

It took you about a second to read that. Yet, for centuries, astronomers and physicists have teamed and tinkered to find the most precise way to measure tock's older brother.

"For most people, you think of a second, you think of one-Mississippi," said Geoff Chester of the U.S. Naval Observatory, which tracks time for the U.S. military and the federal government. "But a lot can happen in one-Mississippi."

Today, make that a lot times two. In a global type of clock repair, the world's timekeepers will add a second to the atomic clock's Coordinated Universal Time for the first time this century.

"It's amazing how much coverage this gets," said Michael Newman of the National Institute of Standards and Technology, which operates the world's most accurate atomic clock in Boulder, Colo. "People are always fascinated by time."

Honors students can get tuition scholarships

The College of Lake County's honors program will offer three class sections for spring semester 2006 that are open only to honors students, who are eligible to receive in-district tuition scholarships to cover the cost of honors courses.

The honors option will be offered in World Religions (PHI 126), History of Western Civilization II (HST 122) and a section of English Composition II (ENG 122), focusing on the 1960s.

High school seniors who would like to earn college credit in their last semester are also urged to apply to the program, which features small class sizes with lots of individual attention.

"Students who should apply to the CLC Honors Program are highly motivated students who enjoy challenges and high-level class discussions," according to Nick Schevera, an English instructor and honors program coordinator at the Grayslake school.

To be eligible for the program, students must have earned a 3.5 out of 4.0 GPA or higher in high school or a college GPA of 3.25 out of 4 or higher and must fill out a simple application.

Students must be accepted into the honors program to enroll.

Applications to the honors program are now being accepted. To apply or for more information, contact Schevera at 847-543-2959 or by e-mail at com409@clcillinois.edu. Spring classes begin Jan. 17 and registration is currently underway.

Aid oversight is a necessity

Loans designed to help businesses adversely affected by the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, 2001 often went to recipients who were unqualified, according to the results of an audit by the Small Business Administration's inspector general.

The troubling findings reveal little oversight in a program meant to help people whose lives were devastated by the attacks. Instead of loans going to help rebuild shattered lives and businesses, money went to places such as a Virgin Islands perfume shop, a South Dakota radio station, a Utah dog boutique and more than 100 Dunkin' Donuts and Subway sandwich shops.

In all, the audit found that 85 percent of the time lenders did not document that recipients were actually hurt by the terrorists' attacks.

Whenever disaster strikes there is often an immediate outpouring of aid. Millions of dollars are donated. Charitable organizations mobilize and make their services available. And the government, too, comes through with aid and relief programs.

But collecting the money and creating the relief programs are really the easy part. Making sure money goes to those who need it is the hard, yet essential, part of the equation. The government can authorize billions of dollars in aid, as has been done since Hurricane Katrina destroyed much of New Orleans. However, without proper oversight, such aid will do little good.

When disaster money is mishandled, the impact is twofold. First, people who need help do not get it. Second, those who gave are less inclined to give again fearing their money will be wasted.

In this case, the problem had to do with a government program and not donated dollars. Still the message is clear, proper oversight is essential in any disaster relief effort. Approving billions of dollars and creating aid programs are not enough. There needs to be follow through.

The good news is that the Small Business Administration report came out when it did.

We hope that government officials take a long, hard, look at what went wrong with its loan program and learn from it. Otherwise in a year we will likely read about how money earmarked for Katrina relief was misappropriated and mishandled.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Focus should be on needs of community

It's unfortunate, especially during the holiday season, that Antioch and Fox Lake are embroiled in heated turmoil and continue to attack each other in frivolous bouts of political adolescence.

It's no particular surprise to me concerning the discontent felt by Fox Lake in feeling left out by Antioch's solo sponsorship of the upcoming fishing tournament. The alliance between the two villages earlier on in the Professional Walleye Trail (PWT) tournament brought about similar disparaged overtones. Though the general public was informed on how smoothly the planning and staging of the event evolved, comparable nonsense such as is now apparent, occurred behind the scenes throughout the year-long promotion of the project.

As a member of the Antioch/Fox Lake PWT Committee, my role was to cover the event from the inception of the planning, to the tournament conclusion in a series of articles for the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce Newsletter and web site.

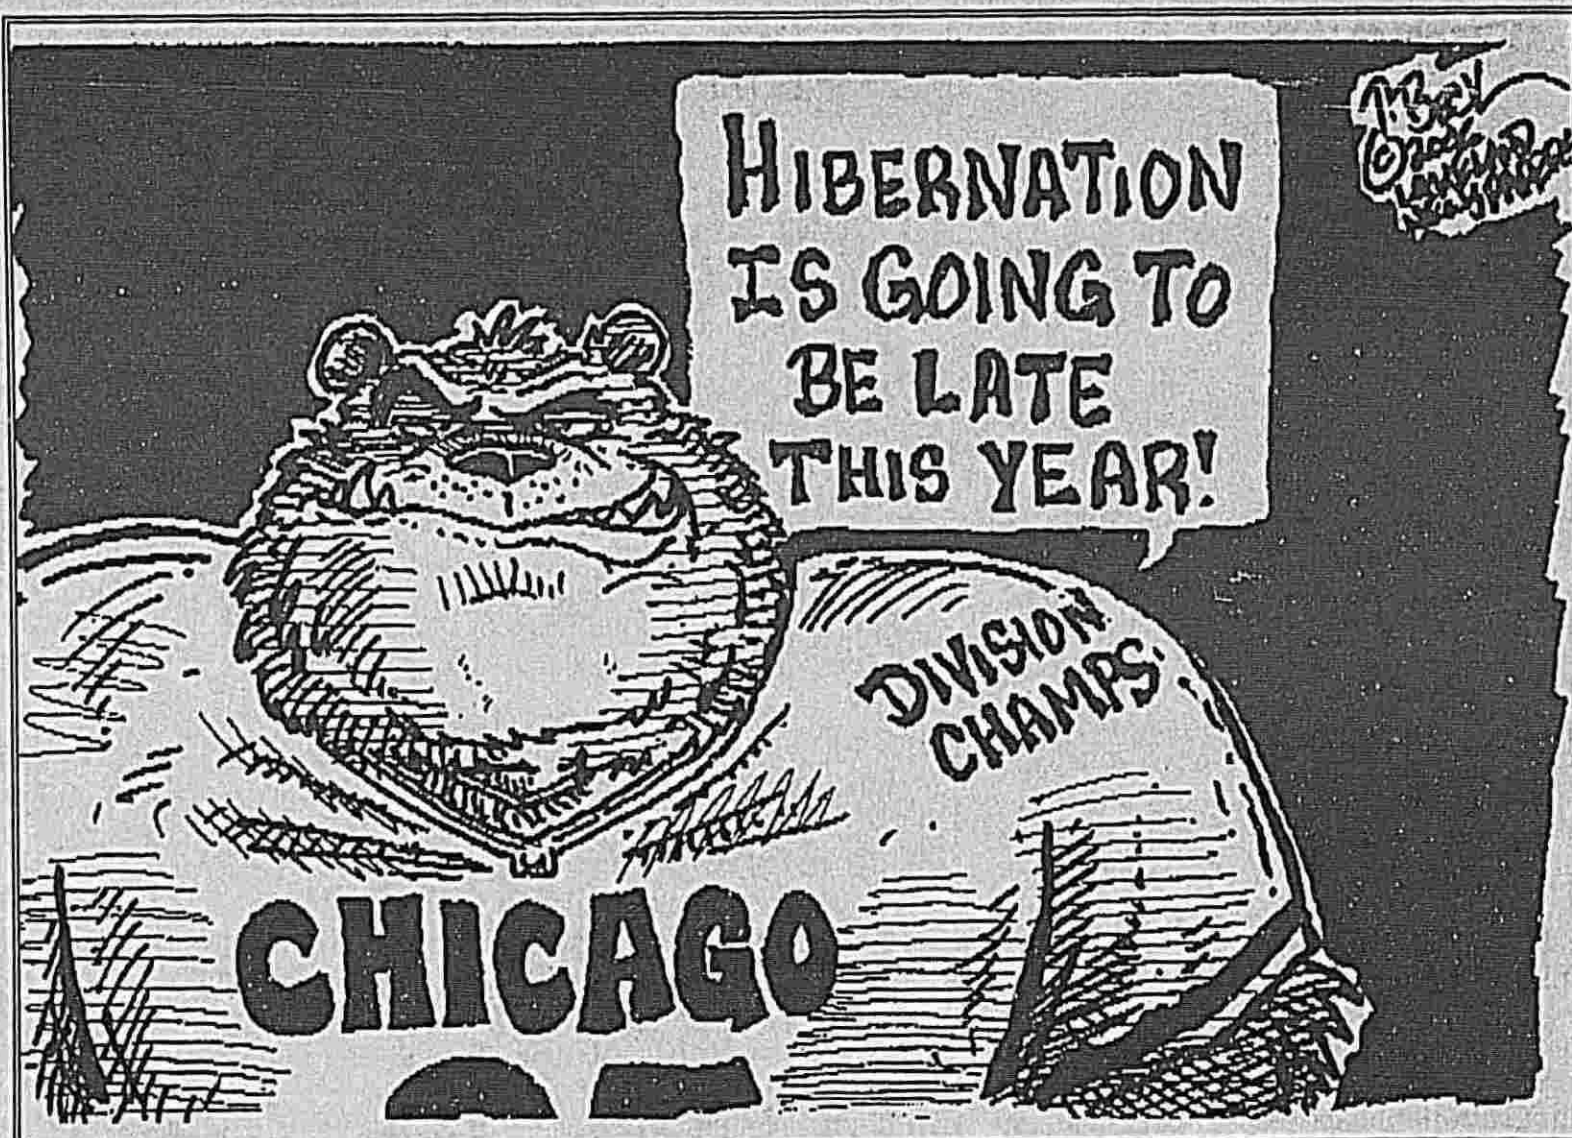

Attending various meetings and press conferences allowed me to experience true, small town politics in action. It took very little insight to realize that this was hardly about fishing tournaments, or for the benefit of the surrounding communities as reported. It was barely geared for any purpose other than political positioning.

Their combined energies could, at this point, be much more well-spent in putting their efforts in the true light of serving the communities. I assume that this premise should be their main focus, and is the absolute reason for their existence in the first place.

The idea that Antioch now needs to spend $25,000 to have a marketing firm build up their image and promote interest in their town, seems a little pointless, if they can't even look past their own selfish needs and avoid petty squabbles with neighboring towns. The funds allocated to perform their facelift could be amicably utilized to boost their integrity through various other means, such as social service and behavioral training. They certainly have lost sight of basic human interaction, common sense, and manners only well behaved children now seem to possess.

Confidence rising as are the questions

Bold headlines are splashing good news across our morning newspapers: "Consumer Confidence Surges." The Consumer Confidence Index has risen from 98.3 in November to a feverish 103.6 in December after a September plummet due to the financial aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.

What this means is that analysts expect people to spend more money in 2006. I don't know where these analysts live but I don't think they're from the Midwest.

Chicagoland has traditionally been heavily dependent on the manufacturing and more recently the construction sectors for job growth. Even with a projected shortage in the skilled labor pool, all indicators point to a lukewarm job market: "The new year will be good, but not spectacular for job growth and not a lot of change from 2005," says Rick Mattoon, senior economist for the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The dim job market coupled with soaring fuel and, in the near future, higher electricity costs will find Illinoisans not buying much of anything.

Illinois voters have a perfect opportunity to change that in 2006 in the form of newly elected or re-elected stewards of the state's resources. The governor's race has recently picked up yet another challenger to incumbent Blagojevich, bringing the gaggle up to a staggering seven, but it still coming down to a shouting match between J-Barr and G-Rod. And Rod's silence is deafening.

Judy Barr Topinka, with the help of State Sens. Jeff Schoenberg, D-Evanston and Kirk Dillard, R-Hinsdale, is courting venture capitalists with a $50 million Technology Development fund recently saying to the Illinois Venture Capitalists Association, "You are going to create the most important thing that we can offer in this state and that's jobs, jobs, jobs, and more jobs," she said.

As a counterpoint, Blagojevich, seemingly fiddling as Rome burns, has let his $200 million Illinois Opportunity Fund, which back in 2003 was touted as securing venture capital funds to invest in Illinois based companies, wither on the vine of the state Legislature.

Blago has also kept his reasonably successful Opportunity Returns business initiative program hidden under a rock. These days he's cast his eyes on reopening a previously closed Illinois trade office in the Middle East. A bad or good idea? Who knows? G-Rod's not talking about anything these days. Perhaps he's busy writing a book called "Not Getting Re-Elected for Dummies."

Now there's a product the consumers of Illinois could spring for in that predicted spending frenzy of 2006.

Good news, bad topic

Every so often we get good news about a bad topic: the number of abortions in Illinois hit a 30-year low in 2004. Human nature shows us that, unlike blame, credit is hoarded by the supporters of each side of a cause, each feeling vindicated by the result.

Is it that the pro-life movement has finally gotten their message of respect and abstinence across to our sex-obsessed culture or is it that the pro-choice camp has been successful in getting more reliable contraceptives and morning-after pills into those same hands? Does it matter?

Locally, though, each camp might want to take a look at the footnote in our northern Illinois neighborhood. Here, McHenry, Kane and Will counties have experienced increases in abortions from 2003-04. So let's take a swig of the champagne and get back to work.

Jewel of denial

No less than five Lake County board members have been appointed to serve on the Route 120 Corridor Planning Council, whose crown jewel is the Route 120 bypass: a 7.5 mile, four-lane highway between Grayslake and Gurnee.

They certainly have their work cut out for them. Mapping the bypass will be cake, compared to creating quantifiable community support for the project. Lake County voters were very clear at the polls last April saying no to an average $44 per year tax increase to fund road improvement programs.

The board has not indicated a desire to take the issue to a third referendum to ask for more taxpayer funds and so we anxiously await the council's plan to pay for that new jewel we have our eye on.

Keep it up

High five Waukegan! In addition to a revitalized downtown, it can now boast about a sharp drop in their murder rate and a whopping 50 percent decrease in overall crime.

Despite a population increase of more than 30 percent since 1990, Waukegan had two killings this year. Two too many, to be sure, but not bad considering the dubious honor of being Lake County's leader in homicides in the '80s.

A combination of 40 additional police officers over the last decade and better crime-fighting technology has Waukegan on track to be the next Pleasantville. Jack Benny would be proud.

Response to movie

As "The Ringer," Bobby and Peter Farrelly's latest comedy, is played in theatres across the country, audiences will enjoy the trademark humor so often seen in a Farrelly Brothers film. More importantly, they will see how Special Olympics changed one man's life. It's a story that is carried out every day in Illinois on and off the playing fields for the athletes and volunteers of Special Olympics.

While Special Olympics empowers individuals with intellectual disabilities to become physically fit through sports training and competition, Special Olympics is more than just sports. Special Olympics enriches the lives of athletes in countless ways. That's because Special Olympics athletes find friends that last a lifetime, achievements that make them proud and a community that embraces them.

The volunteers and coaches within Special Olympics also are transformed forever. In Special Olympics, the lines of difference blur and commonalities shine through, leading to greater understanding and acceptance between those with and without disabilities.

During the new year, we invite people to experience Special Olympics for themselves and thank those who continue to support us. Get involved in your community as an athlete, coach, volunteer, sponsor or donor. Information is available at www.soill.org or at 1-800-394-0562.

Special Olympics Illinois*

What If?

My name is Jim Schroeder and I am a Special Olympics athlete and Global Messenger from Chicago. What kind of world would we live in if those with intellectual disabilities were accepted?

Living day to day with an intellectual disability is not easy. Some of us are luckier than others because we are higher functioning. No matter what the level of functioning is, we all share some of the same feelings and disappointments. I often feel afraid, left out, not accepted, because I am different. People like me become targets for others to make fun of, stare at, etc. Those who know me understand my disability and know my capabilities. Those who do not know me, seldom give me a chance. When you act differently you are treated differently. This should not happen, none of us asked to be born like this. The challenges we face are many, they include everything from self-care, attending school, to getting a job.

We must be accepted for who we are and for what we can do, given our disability. When this happens the world will be a better place for all people to live. There will no longer be a division among the normal and the not so normal people. It will take every person living in this world to step up to the plate and take responsibility for their thoughts and actions. Then and only then will our world be better.

Each person with a disability, whether it is intellectual or physical, is unique with many good qualities. These qualities often go unnoticed. Each of us can contribute to society in our own special way. We need to be given the chance to do so. All of us can make a positive difference. Once you get to know us you will be surprised at what we can do. In fact, many of us can do things one would never think possible.

Once those with intellectual disabilities are accepted the world in which we live can take on new meaning. There would be a blending of people vs. a separation. Instead of being left out we would be a part of something. We would all be treated like people with feelings despite how we act or look. Those who did not let us into their world before will now be in our world and have the opportunity to see what they have been missing. Through acceptance, our lives will be enriched in special ways as well as the lives of those we touch.

In closing, the world in which the intellectually disabled live can be greatly improved if everyone re-evaluated their thinking, change their actions, and learn to accept people as they are.

PARTY LINES

No criminal charges for village trustee

Longtime Mundelein Trustee Bruce Campbell will not face criminal prosecution for his votes that authorized the village to do business with his sign- and banner-making business, Signs Now. Campbell submitted his resignation from the board last month, which is effective Jan. 10.

Assistant State's Attorney George Strickland said investigators did not find criminal intent with Campbell's actions. "He made a mistake. It was a very bad mistake, but it was a mistake nonetheless," he said.

Campbell will act as pro-tem mayor at his last village board meeting on Jan. 9 because Mayor Ken Kessler will not be present.

Gaining support

Wauconda resident Aaron Lincoln, one of the challengers for the GOP nomination, has a sign in one of the far reaches of the district, State Park Road, in Spring Grove. The district includes Lake, McHenry and Cook counties.

Web site

State Rep. Robert W. Churchill (R-62) has established a new Web site. The new site is www.RobertWChurchill.com. Churchill is one of the candidates in the Eighth Congressional District Republican Primary.

Churchill has retained BrabenderCox, who will handle Churchill's media campaign, including television, direct mail, radio and web advertising. The firm has gained national exposure for its unconventional approach to political advertising, earning a reputation for cutting edge creative work. During the last four election cycles, the firm has been honored with several awards.

"Working with an accomplished media firm such as BrabenderCox is essential to my campaign in order to ensure voters hear my message of improving our schools and bettering our transportation systems," Churchill said in a release.

The firm has offices in Virginia, Washington, D.C., Pittsburgh. Republican clients include Sen. Rick Santorum (R-PA), Congresswoman Melissa Hart (R-PA), and others.

Winter break

Fox Lake Mayor Cindy Irwin and the village board may have to re-introduce themselves to each other when they meet on Jan. 10. The board has not met since Dec. 13 at village hall, 66 Thillen Drive. A late December meeting was canceled.

"I am in constant contact with Interim Police Chief Mike Behan, Fire Chief and Public Works Director Ron Heohne and the trustees on a constant basis," Irwin said.

Bond announces candidacy

Grayslake resident and Woodland Community Consolidated School District 50 Board of Education member Michael Bond has announced his candidacy for the Illinois State Senate. Bond hopes to claim a seat in the 31st District. He currently works as an executive at Allstate Insurance Company.

"I will address in this campaign the importance of tax fairness, near-term traffic solutions and achieving educational excellence in

Campbell: Will be village's pro-tem mayor before quitting post.

Irwin: Still in contact, despite no meeting.

every Illinois classroom," said Bond. "I will use proven strategies to bring fresh solutions to the problems we face in education and education funding, transportation enhancements for Lake County, and improving economic growth and job opportunities for our area and the state as a whole."

Library boundaries

Voters are being asked to decide whether or not they would like to incorporate a currently unserved portion of Newport Township into the Warren Newport Public Library system. The parcel of land is near Wadsworth and lies roughly south of the state line, north of Route 173, west of the Union Pacific Railroad (near Delany), and east of the tollway. The area includes approximately 300 people.

Voters currently in the library district as well as those in the proposed annexed area will be asked to decide whether to incorporate this unserved area on the March 21 ballot.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to Rumsfeld

As the nation and as states like Illinois initiate new efforts to put an end to human trafficking, I was particularly troubled by the U.S. Defense Department's apparent inaction on a new policy that would ensure that contractors are not engaging in or supporting the very activities we are trying to eliminate.

Every year, an estimated 14,000 to 17,500 people are trafficked into the United States. Human trafficking is tied with the illegal arms industry as the second largest criminal industry in the world today.

Here in Illinois, we are taking a serious and aggressive approach to ending human trafficking and forced labor. On Jan. 1, the new Trafficking of Persons and Involuntary Servitude Act goes into effect, creating harsh felony penalties for anyone responsible for involuntary servitude, sexual servitude of a minor or human trafficking for forced labor and services. In addition, we are the first state to work with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services on building a coalition that will train thousands of police officers, social workers and citizens to identify the victims of this modern form of slavery, and offer assistance so that victims can regain their freedom.

It is time for our foreign policy on human trafficking to reflect these same values. Three years ago, President Bush declared a "zero tolerance" policy for human trafficking, and two years ago, Congress also adopted that stance. Unfortunately, the Pentagon has yet to adopt a policy banning human trafficking, and has stalled on a proposal banning defense contractors from using forced labor. It is time for the Pentagon to take aggressive action against these deplorable crimes and protect basic human rights within our borders and overseas.

The time to act is now. I urge the Pentagon to adopt a "zero-tolerance" policy for human trafficking.

Happy, safe new year

I saw the article on New Year Traditions celebrated around the world. For the last couple of years, I have either made plans at a hotel or simply sat in front of a television sipping champagne on New Year's Eve. There is nothing better than celebrating New Year's with a large group, kissing a loved one at the stroke of midnight, and also shaking the hand of a stranger and wishing them a happy and healthy new year. The problem is that the cost of a hotel or a limo on New Year's Eve can be very expensive.

Mike Behan, of the Fox Lake Police Department developed a concept, when, between 11 p.m. to 3 a.m. on New Year's Eve and New Year's Day, a resident can call 847-587-3100 and receive a ride home with no questions asked. I am hoping that this program will be a new tradition for Fox Lake and will quickly spread to other towns and villages.

VIEWPOINT

2006 FORECAST:

Lake County won't be boring

*A few predictions for the coming year.
Some of them nutty, some serious.*

1. Melissa Bean will retain her Congressional seat in November after a close call from Bob Churchill, who will emerge victorious in the GOP primary against Theresa Bartels of Mundelein and Kathy Salvi of Wauconda.

2. With the state's last gambling license up for grabs, Waukegan will make a valiant effort but come up short.

3. After a year with no state football championship after two consecutive years, 2006 will bring a state championship back to Lake County. Buckle up, because Libertyville's ready for another title run.

4. Coming off a year of uncertainty, the Lake County Fairgrounds will sell to a developer, planning a major mall starting in early 2007.

5. I'll start an exercise regimen three times per week. I mean it. Really.

6. Fox Lake will finally get approval for a hotel water park.

7. This will be Dusty Baker's last season as Cubs manager. Cubs will finish three games over .500.

8. I'll lower my golf handicap by three.

9. Gas prices will drop below $2 before summer begins.

10. We won't hear much of a blip about Route 53 this year. Thankfully.

Bob Schroeder
General Manager

Smoke up Johnny

Lake County bars and restaurants will benefit from Chicago's decision to ban smoking, just as long as they don't rush to follow suit. I don't light up, but my smoking friends tell me they're not going to go downtown as often. Too much of a hassle, they say.

Will police carry tape measures to make sure that smokers aren't 14 feet from establishments?

One man's family

Daughter Caroline just enjoyed her second Christmas and had no problem getting into the holiday spirit. Daily, she would turn on the Christmas tree lights, give Santa (she refers to him as "Saucy") intense hugs and watch her "Dora the Explorer" Christmas video, all while battling a cold. What a little trooper. Here's wishing you and your family a healthy and prosperous 2006.

WELCOMING 1991

1976 30 YEARS AGO

With then-Antioch Mayor Robert Wilton dressed as Abraham Lincoln, Trustee William Seeman as George Washington and Trustee Diane (Willie) Kasik dressed in colonial clothes, the Antioch trustees sang happy birthday to America before opening the first village board meeting of the bicentennial year. Many members of the Antioch Bicentennial Commission attended the festivities. "They are doing an excellent job and it looks like it will be an exciting year," Wilton commented.

1986 20 YEARS AGO

Two women—one from Antioch—went on a six-day holiday shopping spree with an estimated $20,000 of forged checks in November. But the day after Christmas, the two did not pass "Go," did not collect $200 and ended up in the poor house.

Following an investigation with the help of 11 Illinois police departments, Antioch and Fox Lake police caught up with the forgery scam of the Antioch woman, 25, and a Schaumburg woman, 22.

The women purchased furniture, stereo equipment, a VCR, a large-screen television, clothes and toys, among other things.

1991 15 YEARS AGO

Despite an economic downturn, the village of Gurnee and surrounding municipalities had an ambitious agenda as 1991 began. In Gurnee, the opening of Gurnee Mills regional shopping center, the construction of a new village hall and planning for a new school and additions at Woodland Dist. 50 topped the list.

"One of the major accomplishments of 1990 was the adopting of the new comprehensive plan, which will take us well in the 1990s," then-Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton said.

parents who won't have to come in to sign the paperwork," said "Lefty," an artist at Bustos.

To avoid confusion, the law clearly states that anyone 17 or younger is barred from setting foot into a tattoo parlor unless accompanied by a parent.

The law will seemingly open a floodgate of ever-younger adults taking the plunge into the world of body art, but as Lefty points out "the law never stopped anyone before. They either got their parents to sign or they simply crossed the border over to Indiana or Wisconsin which resulted in a lot of lost business for us."

Bustos estimates a 20 percent increase in business. "In January we've already made so many appointments which will keep us busy for who knows how long."

Being the only tattoo parlor in town has definite benefits said Lefty. "People come to us from Waukegan, Chicago, and even Milwaukee. Our work speaks for itself," he said.

"We encourage all our prospective customers to take their time to research a parlor, go in to check things out, talk to the artists, ask questions, and look at portfolios. Do the research and be informed of what you're doing to yourself."

SECOND

Just before 6 p.m. Central Standard Time, the world's clock read something like this: 5:59:59 ... 5:59:60 ... 6:00:00.

Chester said the leap second was crucial for scientists, military members, and anyone else who relies on time-sensitive satellites that power cell phones, the Internet or global-positioning systems.

"In one nanosecond, a photon of light travels approximately 1 foot," Chester said. "If you have a clock in error by one millisecond, your possible error could be off by 186 miles."

So why the leap second? Ever so slowly, the earth is slowing down, Chester said, so occasionally a second must be added to measure its full rotation.

From 1972 to 1998, 22 seconds were added to the atomic clock under the guidance of the International Bureau of Weights and Measures in Paris. But for reasons unknown, Earth is not slowing down as much as it used to, which is why time has marched unchanged since 1998.

"If you come up with the answer, you'll probably win the Nobel Prize for physics," Chester said. "Something caused the rotation of the earth to decelerate at a slower rate."

It is enough to make anyone's inner "12:00" blink. But deciding what to do with that extra second is not so difficult.

ought to be thinking about other solutions."

State Rep. Jack Franks, D-Woodstock, who helped pass the law, disagreed. The legislator supports lifelong supervision of sex offenders because of the nature of their crimes.

"This is a unique crime," Franks said. "The recidivism rate for sex offenders is extraordinarily high. These people cannot be rehabilitated. We have to protect society from them."

Local police are responsible for making sure that sex offenders follow certain criteria, such as reporting all address changes to authorities within 10 days, and not living within a certain distance of parks or schools.

OFFENDERS

"That notion is completely out the window. They're always going to be on a list and carry that with them."

Since the genesis of state sex-offender registries, the ACLU has taken issue with such listings, citing privacy issues and claiming that the list is too general.

"We're making blanket assertions without any process of making individual determinations," Yohnka said.

"We have to be careful of where we find balance [between civil liberties and safety]," Yohnka said. "The only solution we have at our disposal is adding people to a list when we

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Happy New Year to all! Hope your Holidays were great. To start 2006 I wanted to put some things in perspective. I heard a song recently that made me cry. I was waiting in the car for my husband to come out of a store and this song by Billy Dean came on the radio. I listened to it and looked at my kids and I was overwhelmed with feelings. Now, this song is on US99 which for you non-country people, is the Country music station. Whether you like Country music or not, I think the message of this song is universal or should be universal. Too often, we get lost in the race and push our kids too hard too fast. Too many activities. Worrying too much about their activity level and whether they have attention problems. Wanting them to be smarter or faster or better than the next kid. Putting them in school too soon. Getting mad at them too often. Sending them back to bed too soon after a nightmare because they need to learn to be tough. We all want the best for our kids, but sometimes (me included), we don't look at the big picture. This song really helps put in perspective the big picture. I am going to print Billy Dean's wonderful lyrics here and encourage everybody and anybody who has kids to get this song and listen to it at least every once in a while if not daily.

*I can remember when you fit in the palm of my hand
Felt so good in it, no bigger than a minute
How it amazes me, you're changing with every blink
Faster than a flower blooms they grow up all too soon*

*So let them be little 'cause they're only that way for a while
Give them hope, give them praise, give them love every day*

Let them be little

*Let them cry, let them giggle, let them sleep in the middle
Oh just let them be little*

*I've never felt so much in one little tender touch
I live for those kisses, prayers and your wishes
Now that you're teaching me things only a child can see
Every night while we're on our knees all I ask is please*

*Let them be little 'cause they're only that way for a while
Give them hope, give them praise, give them love every day
Let them cry, let them giggle, let them sleep in the middle
Oh just let them be little*

So innocent, a precious soul, you turn around It's time to let them go

So let them be little 'cause they're only that way for a while

*Give them hope, give them praise, give them love every day
Let them cry, let them giggle, let them sleep in the middle
Oh just let them be little*

Let them be little

Replace your New Year's resolutions with a healthy action plan

As you ring in the new year, you see that the cookies have been decorated and eaten, the gifts have been purchased, given and returned, family has come and gone and now you have an entire year ahead of you until the next holiday season!

So, what do you plan to accomplish or tackle this next year until the holidays are here again? If you already have a list of resolutions longer than your holiday shopping list, you may want to think again. In fact, you may want to think back to last year's resolutions. Were you able to lose those 50 pounds, exercise seven days a week or get into that size 4 dress? As you sit and reflect on last year, here is another thought: doing the same thing over and over again and expecting a different result is, in fact, one definition of insanity. Are you insane? Probably not, but if you set similar resolutions for yourself each year and are unable to attain them due to their unrealistic nature, it may be time to try something different.

Toby Smithson, RD, LDN, Community Dietitian with the Lake County Health Department and a spokesperson for the Illinois Dietetic Association, encourages us to make a resolution this year to make no more resolutions.

"Many people set unrealistic expectations for themselves year after year when setting New Year's resolutions, which often leads to failure and feelings of guilt," says Smithson. "Instead of making unrealistic resolutions, make this year different. This year develop an action plan for better health that your mind and body will thank you for."

Smithson gives us these tips for changing your typical resolutions into a well thought out action plan for better success:

- Lifestyle changes are more important than quick fixes. If weight loss is your goal, avoid trying out the latest diet or exercise fad just to lose that holiday weight. You may lose weight, but often quick fixes are not sustainable.

- Set attainable goals so you can see success. We often set ourselves up for failure by setting goals that are unrealistic and unattainable. Start your year off right by breaking your large goals into smaller, more specific goals or try cutting your lofty goals in half to make them more manageable. Take some baby steps to reaching your goal.

What the female players

As the basketball season rages on in the Lake County area, experiences for a lifetime are created each and every week in countless gyms. Yet, judging by the attendance numbers, the girls don't amass the same caliber of memories as their male classmates do.

Despite the state tournament attendance numbers, many girls players and coaches do not feel threatened by the gap. Round Lake girls basketball coach Gary Edge has had a lot of experience working with girls, after all, he's been coaching the team for more than two decades. While the veteran coach does acknowledge there is a problem with attendance at girls basketball games, Edge thinks it may be indicative of a larger problem.

"I don't know if it's so much of a girls versus boys thing or if it's an overall attendance issue for high school sports in general," Edge said. "When I first started coaching, any game on a Friday night brought out the whole town to the gym. Now you might get good attendance for some of the bigger games with some of the better-known teams, but the average game does not draw nearly as many people as it used to."

Carmel coach John Halloran is more grateful for the attention his team does receive. Like Edge, Halloran said that the general rule in sports is the bigger the game, the bigger the crowd.

"Last season, we had a lot of support when we went deep into the tournament," Halloran said. "In big games, you can expect a big crowd and I think that's the same across the board for both girls and boys games."

The players observe more of a problem than the coaches do but like Halloran, are simply glad to see faces in the stands during games. Star Mundelein guard Shara Swager said that girls basketball has lagged behind the male game despite an ever-improving level of play amongst the female competition.

"It's really difficult to attract fans to our games for some reason," Swager said. "We all try to ask our friends and family to come, but we can't force them to come. I think that as time goes on, though, we will attract more fans. In the past few years, the competition level has gone up in women's basketball and that should bring in more people."

Warren center Sarah Boothe has only been tearing up the Lake County courts since her freshman year last season, but has also noticed the difference. The Blue Devils have put together one of the most powerful programs in the area and is one of the biggest draws attendance-wise in the female arena. However, the girls still don't stack up well with the boys.

"We get a lot of fans out for our games, but it's not anything compared to what the boys team gets for every game," Boothe said. "When we have big games, we can pack the gym, but for normal games, it's not quite as crowded."

Swager is even able to find some good in the perceived lack of attention her team receives when compared to her male Mustang counterparts. After all, attendance numbers don't win games and all players would rather have a win at the end of the night.

"I think the good part of it is that when you don't have a lot of fans, there's not as much pressure on you," Swager said. "We kind of like the fact that we're underground because we know that when we do have fans or do have a lot of attention, we know that it's a big thing and there's a bigger shock value from the other teams because they didn't know what to expect."

Whether or not the players and coaches believe the attendance gap is a problem between the sexes or a problem with the amount of entertainment out there these days, teams are taking steps in order to draw more fans into area gyms. Illinois is ahead of the curve in scheduling girls games. They are scheduled on Friday and Saturday nights — dates traditionally reserved to only the boys game. Some schools have also scheduled the girls and boys varsity games back to back so both teams enjoy big crowds.

"At certain times, we've (Round Lake Panthers) have been well supported by the students and fans, but we trying different thing to get people in our gym," Edge said. "Last year, we played our game before the boys team did and I think that got a lot of fans for us, but a game between us and Antioch or Wauconda or some of the other schools just isn't going to draw the same amount of fans as a big game between two big schools like Warren or Libertyville will. We're trying to get the fans in here, but I think all coaches are faced with the same thing."

For coach, winning isn't the only thing

By Dan Patrick

Sports Editor

In the grand scheme of sports, rankings are nothing but mere numbers. Sure, statistics can be interpreted to say anything a person wants, but it takes a good game to make a good team. In the case of Warren coach John Stanczykiewicz, it takes the ability to admit weakness to make a great team.

Despite jumping out to one of the best starts in the area, Stanczykiewicz was not completely happy after winning their own Holiday Tournament. Sure, retaining their own trophy was a nice Christmas present, but the manner in which they took the competition did not completely please the veteran coach.

Even after a big win against Deerfield that put the Blue Devils into the championship game, Stanczykiewicz dissected his team's game and saw a lot of bad with the good end result of another notch in the "W" column.

"I don't know if we're mentally focused, I don't know if we played a good team ballgame today," Stanczykiewicz said. "I thought at times we lost our composure and lost things offensively and did not make good decisions defensively."

Perhaps it is Stanczykiewicz's will to look for the mistakes that has made the Warren girls team so strong this season. Despite playing against many of the state's best, the Blue Devils still stand atop the North Suburban Conference

Lake Division and are still the area's best chance at a IHSA AA girls state title this season.

"We need to play our best game at all times because a lot of teams are gunning for us," Stanczykiewicz said. "We're not going to be successful if we let teams get back into games. I'm always happy with a win, but to win without playing a good game is not something we want to do."

The team's manner in the Deerfield win worried the coach as he felt that sluggish play could be just the opening Warren opponents need to dethrone the highly-touted squad.

"We miss free throws, we miss easy shots that we normally make, all I know is that we can't do that against more powerful teams and I hope our team knows that," Stanczykiewicz said. "At times, we've played waiting for the clock runs out rather than playing to win and that's a very dangerous thing against any team."

Warren star center Sarah Boothe was a bit more sympathetic to her team's cause. Boothe, who recently gained her first career triple-double, said her team has done a good job keeping the win record out of their collective mind and simply focusing on playing "Blue Devil" basketball.

"I'm not really sure what was going on with us, but we came out strong and then started playing at a lower level," Boothe said. "I just think we need to get some rest and come back hard when we play like this."

Former prep star named to hall of fame

By Dan Patrick

Sports Editor

Jeff Zgonina, a Miami Dolphin defensive tackle and former Carmel Corsair, was recently inducted into the East Suburban Catholic Conference Hall of Fame. Zgonina played under former Carmel coaches Jim Rejc and Mike Fitzgibbons from 1984 to 1987.

Fitzgibbons, who coached Zgonina in his first year at the helm of the program in 1986, said that he was proud to see his former player gain such recognition. What struck the former Corsair coach the most about the player was the resilience he displayed as a player – a skill he still has to this day.

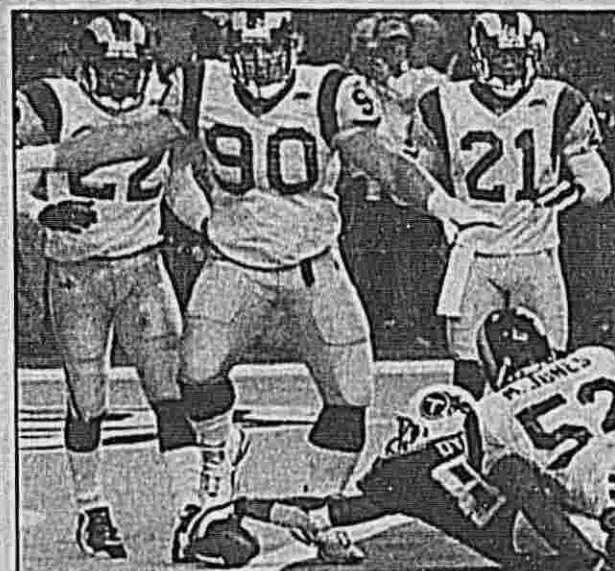

"That's tremendous, it's a great thing, when you get into a hall of fame, it's great for the school, and everyone he's ever worked with," Fitzgibbons said. "He's accomplished so much, I recently heard that he's now the fifth oldest player in the league. Whose career lasts 13 years in the NFL these days? It's great for everybody, his work ethic has got to be remarkable."

Zgonina played for the Carmel Corsairs, earning All-Chicago, All-Catholic League, all-county and all-state honors before graduating. The lineman wasn't just a Corsair on the football field as he also lettered in basketball, hockey and track in his prep career.

Fitzgibbons said that as soon as he took over the program as the football coach, he knew that Zgonina would be a special piece in the puzzle both because of his work ethic and the physical attributes.

"He tested right when I came in my first year and there's a camp before his senior season where he tested at 240 pounds and had a 37-inch vertical," Fitzgibbons said. "That's amazing for a kid that size, that was the end of my first year and I never coached anybody like that again."

After graduating from Carmel, he was a standout with the Purdue Boilermakers as a 4-year starter for the team from 1989 to 1992. In his senior season, Zgonina was named as the Big Ten Defensive Player of the Year and set a school career record with 75 tackles for a loss during his college career.

Former Carmel star Jeff Zgonina (90) signals no touchdown on the final play in one of the most exciting finishes in Super Bowl XXXIV as a member of the St. Louis Rams. ESPN ranked this play as the second most memorable moment in Super Bowl history.

However, his accomplishments do not end on the turf as he is also credited with starting the Gentle Giants program for the Lafayette, Ind. community. The program has Purdue football players assist area elementary schools by reading to students and helping them in class.

In his pro career, he was a seventh-round draft choice by the Pittsburgh Steelers and has played for the Carolina Panthers, Atlanta Falcons, St. Louis Rams until finally reaching his current home with the Miami Dolphins. Zgonina is a 13-year veteran of the league and even has two Super Bowls under his belt, even winning a ring with the Rams in 2000.

Whether it's the ESCC Hall of Fame or any other hall, the former coach will always be proud of his tackle.

"He's a great guy, very friendly, very personable, just a very good guy all around," Fitzgibbons said. "It's quite an honor to know that I've had some part in coaching such a great player and a great man."

ATTENTION PET OWNERS We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals
 If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.
 • Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
 • Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
 • Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Girls overcome youth with defensive tenacity

After a 25-win season, a team struggles to get back to last season's form

By Dan Patrick

Sports Editor

Using a superstar is extremely difficult for any sports team. If there's any need for proof, just ask the Chicago Bulls after Michael Jordan left town. While the high school game is full of constant ups and downs as classes come and go, life on the Carmel girls basketball court without former Corsair Jenny Eckhart has been difficult.

Last season, the Carmel squad amassed more than 25 wins and consistently stood amongst the best in the state. This year, it's been a different story, but for coach John Halloran and his staff, there's been a lot of progress made in the post-Eckhart era.

"I'm really proud of the girls and the fact that they're really young and there's very little varsity experience between them," Halloran said. "They're getting better and better as time goes on and they're starting to win some games."

One of the biggest changes the Corsair game has undergone is its transition from a star-based offensive scheme to a more balanced attack. As the Corsairs have been left without that single floor general, Halloran and his team has switched focus to a more inclusive game.

"They're getting better and we've actually had a lot of contributions from kids off the bench," Halloran said. "Those kids don't always play a lot, but we need them to be a successful team. We play so hard on defense that some of the kids get tired and when they need a rest, we need the kids off the bench to contribute and they did."

"When you're young and you're learning, every win is so important, because it gets the kids working hard and it keeps them believing. It's tough to play when you're getting hammered game after game."

John Halloran

Carmel Corsairs girls basketball coach

Of course, offense is only one part of a good basketball game and the veteran coach is making sure his team learns his tricks. Thus far, Halloran is pleased with the progress his young team has made over the course of the season.

"We have three or four different things that we do with our man-to-man defense to cause problems for the other teams," Halloran said. "These kids are starting to figure it out and it's going to lead to some better things for us for the rest of the season."

One of the main ways that the coach is trying to improve the Corsair game is by breaking the game down into achievable goals. While the wins may not come all the time, if certain goals are met, players still see progress in the occasional loss.

"We've got certain goals that we set before a game in different categories and we've been hitting the majority of our goals recently," Halloran said. "They've been doing a very nice job for me and I'm proud of that."

One thing the team has learned is resilience and the ability to bounce back from a deficit. Such a skill is a difficult lesson for any team to learn, but the Corsairs seem to have taken control of their emotions.

"Sometimes for a young team and the other team makes a run at you, they lose their confidence and bad goes to worse," Halloran said. "We've changed up a little bit in terms of what we've done defensively, we get a couple of turnovers and they get their confidence back."

While the team has learned to dissect losses and find some good in the bad, wins are always the goal in competition and Halloran's team has not completely forgotten how to get in the winner's circle.

"When you're young and you're learning, every win is so important, because it gets the kids working hard and it keeps them believing," Halloran said. "It's tough to play when you're getting hammered game after game."

The Corsairs might not be able to turn in a sparkling 20-win season again in 2006, but make no mistake, Halloran and his team is going to make sure there will be a lot to look forward to for Carmel fans for years to come.

"We're in the learning stage and it'll be a pretty lengthy learning stage. Our goal is to make this into an institution and our kids understand that and we're working toward that goal," Halloran said.

"We've been playing good teams tough, but we can't quite play four quarters yet," Halloran said. "But we're getting better and our goals lie in the future. Our freshman team is undefeated, we've got four freshmen and three sophomores up on the varsity, our sophomore team has a winning record - a couple of years from now, we'll be right back where we were last year."

PREP PROFILES

CAITLYN TREVILYAN
Carmel Corsairs

Caitlyn Trevilyan is a pretty recognizable name for Carmel girls sports fans as she has muscled her way to the top of the Corsair ranks in basketball and softball. Perhaps what has allowed the Carmel senior to take her place amongst the school's best is her sharpshooting skills on both the diamond and the basketball court.

And what's the best place to learn to sharpshoot? Texas of course and Trevilyan can tell you all about that. Trevilyan originally moved to Lake County from the Lonestar State has probably heard enough Texas jokes to fill the Alamo. However, if it wasn't for her Texan background (and the size of the school she grew up in) Trevilyan may never have found the sport.

"I started playing in sixth or seventh grade because our school only had about 100 kids in it," Trevilyan said. "Because of that, everyone had to come out for sports. I just started playing because everyone had to get into it in so we could even have a team."

Ever since her family made the move when Trevilyan was in the eighth grade, the feisty guard found little difficulty fitting into the Corsair environment despite her small town Texas past.

"It (the transition from Texas to Illinois) was hard at times, but the Carmel community is so awesome," Trevilyan said. "It made it easier because I made so many friends and everyone was so supportive."

While the social change wasn't difficult, the small-to-large school change was more challenging on the basketball court. With more people trying out for teams than she ever had to deal with in her first school, Trevilyan was forced to take her game to heights she had never seen.

"It was definitely harder to play, but the competition level made me better as a player," Trevilyan said. "It helped me to excel in whatever I did because you've got people from all over coming to Carmel and it makes it that much harder to do well on the teams."

Her background might be a bit different from some of her teammates, but the goal remains the same: be the best you can be.

"A lot of people think that we're a young team that can't do much," Trevilyan said. "But we're learning and we're pushing to become a better team. Win or lose, we're going to use every experience to get better."

Grant expectations

Individual efforts leading to bigger and better future for Bulldogs

By Dan Patrick
Sports Editor

Grant fans have had a lot to celebrate over the holiday season as the Bulldogs have enjoyed success in multiple sports. One of the biggest presents the Grant faithful had waiting under the tree this year is the wrestling team.

The team has lost just one match in 17 tries at press time and currently stands as one of the best squads in the state. Grant's game has earned the Bulldogs lots of respect from opposing coaches and teams. Mundelein coach Tom Buenik said his team strives to be spoken of in the same breath as the Fox Lake squad.

"Going up against Grant, one of the best teams in the state, that's tough," Mundelein coach Tom Buenik said. "Up and down the weight classes, especially in the lower classes up to 140, they've got the best lineup in the area...Grant is so strong that they don't back down. That's the kind of team we (Mundelein) aspires to be like."

Grant coach Ryan Geist said the strength of his team lies in its ability to maintain strength throughout the card. Whether it's from big names such as Danny, Sammy and Dom Deligio, Izzy Montemayor or Joe Barczak or from anyone else on the roster, the coach said he likes the selflessness he sees within the Bulldog ranks.

Geist applauded the effort he received from some of his lesser-known grapplers. Josh DeLuca was a fill-in for the 152-pound weight class who performed like a regular, finishing last Friday's quad meet with a spotless 3-0 record with two pins against Grayslake, Mundelein and New Trier wrestlers.

"The guys are wrestling really well, you never know how you're going to come out after the two week break that they've had, but they came out really well," Geist said. "We had a few of our guys not in the lineup today, but I thought the kids who filled in responded really well."

Holiday breaks can be the bane of a winter coach's existence, but Geist felt his team was not hurt by turkey feasts and yuletide celebration.

"As far as rust, maybe there was a little bit here and there, maybe with our wind," Geist said. "But I thought the kids wrestled really well and didn't show any rust and I hope they'll use this as a good start for the second half (of the season)."

Geist said he is happy with the progress the team has made over the course of this season's campaign.

However, despite the impressive mark, the veteran coach is worried because the Bulldogs have now just hit the hardest portion of the season.

As the team has torn through the competition throughout the season, the overall success of the Bulldogs has not been difficult for the team. Thanks to the individual nature of the sport, Grant athletes are able to focus on their own record as opposed to the team or vice versa for refuge from the pressure of big winning streaks.

Ryan Geist
Grant wrestling coach

"The kids who are wrestling a couple weight classes up, they serve a different purpose for our team. And if they're outweighed 20 to 25 pounds, they go out and do their job and they'll do what's best for the team."

"The kids take pride in their records and how well we're doing," Geist said. "Some of our kids who don't have the opportunity to go undefeated, the kids who are wrestling a couple of weight classes up, they serve a different purpose for our team. And if they're outweighed 20 to 25 pounds, they go out and do their job and they'll do what's best for the team."

When asked for the standouts on the squad, Geist has a problem any coach would envy - too much winning that it's hard to remember who's the best.

"We've got a bunch of kids with only a few losses and a lot of wins," Geist said.

Top - Grayslake's Tony Berkowitz and Grant's Joel Montemayor lock horns at the start of their 145 pound match at Grant.

Above - Mundelein's Kyle Menary goes for the pin of a New Trier wrestler in a 135 pound matchup.

Right - Chris Westfall of Grayslake tries for a take-down against a Mundelein wrestler in a 171 pound bout.

Success is what everyone strives for in athletics, but the only problem is that when a competitor begins to win, success becomes mandatory and the pressure of winning becomes worse than the pain of losing. While Grant senior John Deneen has seen such a problem with others in his sport, he only wants to win more.

"I really don't think about it, but some guys I can see that they really might feel the pressure," Deneen said. "Some guys break down under it but I just don't think about it that much."

Rather than crushing the 119-pounder, Deneen's expectations from both the outside and within have only fueled him. Deneen's goal for this season is simple: To be the best.

"Our coach tells us to set our standards pretty high," Deneen said. "I have a goal to be a state champion in my weight class."

What may make such a lofty goal seem more realistic is Deneen's extensive experience with the sport. Unlike many wrestlers he meets in the ring, Deneen has been working on his technique long before he set foot in Grant Community High School.

"I've been wrestling since I was in the third grade," Deneen said. "My mom just signed me up one day because she asked me if I wanted to."

PREPROFILES

JOHN DENEEN
Grant wrestler

While his mother might have been the cause of his wrestling obsession, wrestling isn't in Deneen's blood. Again, Deneen's history doesn't jive with many of his fellow competitors who are following in their relatives' footsteps; instead, Deneen is blazing a wrestling path all his own.

"No one in my family ever wrestled before I started," Deneen said. "I'm more of a scrambler and I use my speed and strength. I just learned my technique from working on it."

Another possible reason for Deneen's success could be from osmosis. After wrestling on one of the area's best teams for years, obviously some of it must have rubbed off on the senior. However, with friendly competition amongst the Bulldog ranks, Deneen makes sure that some of his success has rubbed off on his teammates as well.

"Last year, me and my friend Joe Barczak had a win competition," Deneen said. "We competed between which of us had a better record. We actually ended up tying and that's why it was so competitive, because it was so close."

As Barczak is a state-ranked competitor in the 160-pound ranks, Deneen said he likes to keep it on paper as opposed to on the mat. If Grant's coach had anything to say about it, they'll be competing all the way to mutual state championships. -By Dan Patrick
